Asks Law to Impose 1% Tax On Public Utilities in City

Mayor Explains Proposal in a Letter to Common Council Tuesday—Will Net Kingston $12,000.

MAYOR'S PLAN

Suggests Using Money So Raised To Improve Street Lighting System.

Mayor C. J. Heiselman in a communication to the common council Tuesday evening called attention to the new state law which permitted municipalities to impose a 1 per cent tax on the gross incomes of all public utilities doing business within the municipality; the funds so raised to be used in paying the city's relief costs, and stated it had been estimated that the imposition of such a tax in Kingston would net the city about $12,000 annually, and considering the fact that the city was expending almost $300,000 yearly for home and work relief, the new tax would be but a drop in the bucket. Mayor Heiselman in his communication suggested that the council follow the example of other municipalities and adopt a local law imposing this 1 per cent tax, and suggested that the money so raised be used in improving the street lighting system on Broadway and in the downtown business section.

The council approved the mayor's suggestion as to the adoption of the local law and one was introduced and had its first reading at the meeting. This local law will now lie on the desks of the aldermen until the next meeting when it will receive its final readings.

Mayor Heiselman's communication to the council reads as follows:

The Mayor's Letter

The New York State Legislature at its last session amended Chapter 62 of the Laws of 1909 by adding a section thereto known as 186-a, imposing a state tax of 2 per cent on the gross incomes of all public utilities doing business in this state for a period of one year ending June 30, 1938, and permitting the municipalities of the state to impose by local law a similar tax of 1 per cent, the proceeds of such state and city taxes to be used exclusively for relief purposes.

The avowed purpose of this permissive local tax was to relieve the owners of real property of a portion of the present high cost of relief in the cities of the state. This tax, however, will fall far short of accomplishing its avowed objective, because in the City of Kingston it will bring an annual income estimated at only $12,-000.00, whereas the cost of home relief and the city's share of the cost of WPA will this year total almost $300,000.00. It will therefore readily be seen that this utility tax is but a drop in the bucket and will not provide much relief to our real estate taxpayers.

Is Lop-Sided.

It is also illuminating to observe that whereas the state pays only 40 per cent of the cost of home relief and no part of WPA, the state takes for itself 66 per cent of the utility tax and gives the cities only 33 per cent, although the city pays 60 per cent of the cost of home relief and as high as 50 per cent of the cost of WPA. This distribution is lop-sided enough but not quite so bad as the thousands of dollars in gasoline taxes and motor vehicle fees which our citizens pay annually and of which the city receives nothing whatsoever.

Lighten Taxes.

As you are aware, it has been the constant aim and purpose of my administration to lighten the tax burden of our citizens by reducing the cost of government through increased efficiency and the elimination of waste and extravagance. The tax rate during my administration actually has been reduced and not at the expense of municipal services, which have been expanded and improved. Consider if you will that the general tax rate for 1937 is exactly the same as it was for 1926, or 11 years ago, when expenditures for home relief, old age pensions, hospitalization, support of children and other social services were practically nothing as compared with today.

Takes No Pleasure.

My record as a public administrator indicates that I favor sound business methods in government and that I am an exponent of lower and fewer taxes. Although it is considered politically expedient in some quarters to do so, candor compels me to admit that I take no pleasure in advocating additional taxes on public utilities. These companies give employment to a substantial number of our own citizens, a large number of our local citizens are stockholders, and hence part owners of these companies, and these companies are already paying considerable amounts in local taxes. For example, real estate and franchise taxes assessed by the city against the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. during

School Tax Rate Set At $8 Per Thousand

Common Council Approves School Tax Budget—Will Act on School Plans on July 12—Expect Bond Issue Approval

The Common Council Tuesday evening unanimously approved the school tax budget as drafted by the Board of Education, fixing the school tax rate at $8 per thousand valuation. The amount to be raised by local taxes is $186,191.08.

In the budget submitted to the council for approval is included the sum of $124,000 to be used by the education board in carrying out its program for enlarging the school system by erecting new buildings and making additions to present buildings.

Alfred Schmid, president of the education board, was present at the council meeting. He and a committee from the education board had just returned that day from Albany where the plans had been shown to the state education department.

President Schmid following the council meeting met with the aldermen in the mayor's office where the aldermen who had not seen the plans were given the opportunity of viewing them.

At the last meeting of the education board action on the proposed plans of the board's building committee had been deferred to a meeting to be held Monday evening, July 12, at which time it is expected that the plans as drafted by the building committee will be approved by the education board.

As soon as the education board approves the plans it is expected that the council will meet and take action on approving a bond issue so that the plans can be placed in execution.

It is understood that the education board at its meeting next week will approve the plans as submitted by its building committee.

Plan to Eliminate All Railroad Crossings Is Sent Back to Aldermen

New Paltz Water Chlorination Unit Ordered by Board

At the last meeting of the Village Board of the village of New Paltz it was voted to order chlorination machinery to be installed at the village reservoir on the slope of the Shawangunk mountains, as has been recommended by the State Board of Health. The order for the equipment was placed subject to the approval of the State Board.

For some time there has been a discussion among the residents of the village and the village officials as to whether there was need for the plant. The Village Board since its May 25 meeting has made a careful study of the chlorinating plants in a number of communities and several representatives of equipment manufacturing concerns have been interviewed with the result that the order was placed with the Wallace Terman Corporation, the same concern which has supplied Kingston and also New York city with its chlorinating devices.

Automatic Unit

As a result of this study and a survey of the mountainside about the reservoir by the board and also engineers, it was found that the equipment required to handle the work could be purchased for about half what had previously been believed and it was also found that there would be no need for a man to be in constant attendance at the plant. The equipment to be installed will be

Because the petition adopted by the common council at its meeting last month was defective in that it was not drawn in conformity to the provisions of the state grade crossing law the State Public Service Commission has returned the petition to the city to be redrafted and submitted if desired. The fact was brought to the attention of the aldermen Tuesday evening at the monthly meeting and steps were taken to remedy the situation, and a resolution was unanimously adopted directing the city engineer to prepare an estimate of the cost of eliminating each railroad crossing in the city.

The Public Service Commission in its communication, which was read to the council, set forth the fact that in order to brigg up for consideration the elimination of all crossings in the city a petition should be filed in accordance with the grade elimination act, which provides that on or before October 1 of each year a municipality may file with the commission a list of crossings, the elimination of which was suggested for consideration of the state commission.

Such list should contain the name of each crossing proposed to be eliminated together with an estimate of the cost of eliminating each grade crossing. It was said that undoubtedly the city engineer would make an estimate of the cost of eliminating each crossing.

"In any comprehensive plan for the elimination of all crossings in the city," the state board wrote, "the city should give consideration as to what effect, if any, such a scheme will have on the crossings of the Catskill Mountain Division."

As to the Broadway crossing it

11,200 Troops, Police Guard Jerusalem; Holy Land To Hear Royal Plan for Rule

Jerusalem, July 7 (AP)—All available troops and police—about 11,200 men in all — were massed today to met any flareup of smouldering Arab-Jewish strife that might be touched off by tonight's publication of the British Royal Commission's plan for the future of the Holy Land.

Seven British regiments, about 7,000 men, and approximately 4,-200 police were held in readiness as Lieut.-Gen. Sir Arthur Warchope, British high commissioner, prepared what was believed would be an appeal for calm acceptance of the report and avoidance of racial conflict and bloodshed.

Pending disclosure of the Palestine commission's recommendations, it was believed the proposals called for division of the Holy Land into a Jewish state, an Arab state and a territory under British mandate from the League of Nations.

The coincidence of the Zionist Congress election falling on the same day as publication of the report raised excitement to a high pitch among the Jewish population. Arrangements were made to suspend voting for 124 delegates to the Congress an hour before the proposals were disclosed.

Both Jews and Arabs, parties to years of bitter and sometimes sanguinary disputes over their places in the Holy Land, have shown strong opposition to what was described unofficially as the royal commission's partition plan.

As outlined in Jewish circles, the new plan would create a Jewish state comprising the upper and lower Galilee Valley, the Esdraelon coastal plain from Raselnakura in the north to Beertuvia in the south; the great part of the Beisan area, and the towns of Haifa, Safad, Acre and Tiberias.

The British-Mandate area would include Jerusalem, Bethlehem and a corridor on both sides of the Jerusalem-Jaffa road by which Arabs would have access to the sea at the Port of Jaffa.

The rest of Palestine would be an Arab state bordering on Transjordan, a British-mandated Arab nation to the west.

Great Britain would propose treaties with Arab and Jewish organizations to establish the independence of the two states. She would grant £2,000,000 ($10,000,-000) to the Arab state besides an unspecified additional sum to help transport Arabs to Transjordan from the Jewish state.

During the transition period Britain would continue direct administration of the entire Holy Land.

Gov. Hoffman's Libel Suit Loses in Court

Trenton, N. J., July 7 (AP).—Governor Harold G. Hoffman's fight to serve four out-of-state radio companies in his libel suit against Boake Carter, Philadelphia radio commentator, was lost in the Court of Errors and Appeals today.

The state's highest court ruled on a Supreme Court opinion holding that service of summonses on the broadcasting system and sponsors of the broadcaster was "clearly illegal and void" because they were corporations without licenses to do business in New Jersey.

They were the Philco Radio and Television Corporation, the Philco Radio and Television Corporation of Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia Storage Battery Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Still before the Supreme Court, but without any defendant legally notified or summoned to trial, is the governor's suit for $100,000 damage against Carter and his alleged employers. The action was filed a year ago tomorrow, but Carter refused to come to New Jersey for service.

Girl Pleads She Acted to Defend Self in Louisiana

Coushatta, La., July 7 (AP).—Comely Jessie Pepper met with a plea of self defense today the murder charge that followed the "gossip" killing of May Elvin Allen, her life-time chum.

The 17-year-old high school graduate calmly told a five man coroner's jury last night that she shot her friend during a cow pasture quarrel Monday only after she had been attacked by Elvin and the dead girl's mother.

The jury found the Allen girl, also 17, "came to her death by gun wounds at the hands of R. Jessie Pepper."

H. H. Allen, father of the victim, at once swore out warrants charging Jessie with murder, and her mother, Minnie Pepper, with "lying in wait for murder."

Jessie Pepper was returned to jail after the hearing to await grand jury action. Sheriff Floyd Jones did not disclose whether he had served the warrant on Mrs. Pepper.

Jessie, clad in an attractive pink silk dress, told her story in an even, modulated voice.

"My mother and Mrs. Allen had their hands on the gun," she said. "I went to take the gun. I placed my hands on the gun and Mrs. Allen pulled the trigger. The gun went off and burned my left hand.

"Elvin came about the time I had the gun. Elvin had a stick in her hand. Elvin's mother came upon me from the back and Elvin came from the front.

"I shot by her. She kept coming and caught me by the hair. When I shot at her the last two times, they took effect.

"The reason I shot was Mrs. Allen and her daughter were both coming on me at the same time and both were larger than me."

Mrs. Allen testified Jessie "had been telling lies on Elvin."

"She (Elvin) spent a month with her uncle Bill in Vivian. She (Jessie) told that Elvin had a baby while up there."

Mrs. Allen vigorously denied that her daughter advanced on the Pepper girl with a stick or that Jessie had been beaten.

Mrs. Pepper confirmed her daughter's story.

J. C. E. Dorman Dies

New York, July 7 (AP)—John Cecil E. Dorman, 37, newspaperman and magazine writer, died here today. He collapsed yesterday at his desk in the New York City News Association. Dorman was a native of Cedar Springs, Mich. In 1928 he joined the staff of the New York Times. Subsequently he became a news observer for Paramount News Reel, and wrote for a number of magazines. He returned to newspaper work in 1934 with the New York Journal and in the fall of 1935 became a rewrite man for the New York City News Association.

Strikes Less in April

Washington, July 70 (AP)—Labor department statistics disclosed today the number of strikes beginning in April was about 25 per cent lower than in March, when there were the most strikes of any month in 20 years. April's industrial strife still was unusually high, the department said. The month showed a 160 per cent increase in strikes over April, 1936. Because many strikes continued into April, it added, the number of workers involved and the number of man-days of idleness were a bit higher than in March.

No Appearance Today

Detroit, July 7 (AP)—Members of the United Automobile Workers of America failed to appear at the gates of the Ford Motor Co. between 6 and 7 a. m. today to distribute union literature to workers changing shifts. Frank Blake, U. A. W. A. organizer, said Richard T. Frankensteen, union organizational director, notified him the scheduled visit to the Dearborn plant had been called off and that a statement would be issued later.

Search for Earhart Centers South of Howland Island; No More Radio Signals Heard

San Francisco Coast Guard, Checking with Cutter Itasca, Gets No News of Missing Aviators Today.

BLEAK OUTLOOK

More Than 104,000 Square Miles North of Howland Island Searched.

(By The Associated Press)

Honolulu, July 7—Navy ships and planes, coordinating efforts in the vast hunt for Amelia Earhart, aimed today at a new region in the South Pacific wastes where growing belief and some facts indicated the missing aviatrix may be marooned.

The coast guard at San Francisco said it had been checking with the cutter Itasca throughout the day but had no news of the missing aviatrix and her navigator.

Walter McMenamy and Carl Pierson, Los Angeles amateur operators, who have eight receiving sets operating, said they had heard nothing on the Earhart wave length throughout the night and doubted if other amateurs had picked up anything because all operators have been requested to notify them of any reception.

Five discouraging days of scanning the immense area north north-east of bleak Howland Island, which the aviatrix missed last Friday, turned the search to the corresponding area centered south southeast of Howland, where 280 miles away center the Phoenix Islands.

The coast guard cutter Itasca and navy mine sweeper Swan have searched more than 104,000 square land miles north of Howland without a trace of the missing world-girdling plane.

The Itasca methodically scanned an area 300 nautical miles in each direction while the Swan covered a strip 15 miles wide by 240 miles long.

The battleship Colorado, speeding toward an early morning meeting with the coast guard cutter Itasca, planned to release its three deck planes late today for the first aerial search of the area which holds the fate of Miss Earhart and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan.

Met at Dawn

The two vessels were to meet at dawn (about 12:30 a. m. EST) within 100 miles of Howland to refuel the Itasca which had carried on the search virtually alone since last Friday.

Reports early today indicated good weather would be experienced throughout the day in the Howland vicinity. Officers expect the refuelling and replenishing of the Itasca's water supply to require about seven hours.

The ships will proceed into the area east and south of Howland, the Colorado preceded by her fast planes.

More aid from the air was expected over the week-end from the giant aircraft carrier Lexington, speeding from California toward a refueling at Lahaina Roads, Hawaii, where she was expected by 8 p. m., (EST) tomorrow.

After leaving San Diego Sunday with three destroyers, the $40,000,000 Lexington was slicing the Pacific at 33 knots yesterday, a knot and a half below top speed, but a full knot faster than the Atlantic record set by the palatial liner Normandie.

Another dash southward of more than 1,500 miles lay ahead of the Lexington before she could send her brood of 57 planes into an aerial search.

Reason for Shift

Shifting of the search to the south of Howland followed suggestions from Coast Guard officials in San Francisco who conferred with Miss Earhart's husband, George Palmer Putnam, and a recheck of the last available radio messages while the plane was in the air.

Officials agreed Miss Earhart, if she sent any of the maze of unexplained radio distress signals which have spurred the search, must be marooned on land or on a reef above water, because her radio would not operate otherwise.

North of Howland, there is neither known land nor reef for hundreds of miles, but to the south and East is an area dotted with tiny isles and some reefs, beginning as close as 100 miles.

Portable Finder Used

The cutter Itasca reported a portable radio direction finder set up on Howland island had obtained bearings on final messages from the Earhart plane while it was in the air indicating it either was north northwest of Howland or south southeast.

Searchers recalled that the final decipherable report from the plane while it vainly sought Howland last Friday morning mentioned "we are on the line of position

Bingham, Butler Assailed Today By Hitler's Paper

Berlin, July 7 (AP).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, intensified a bitter attack today on Robert W. Bingham, United States ambassador to London, for his Independence Day speech on despots and dictatorships.

The diplomat's speech Monday to the American Society in London was characterized here as an "arrogant and ignorant" attempt to tell foreign nations now to manage their own affairs.

Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, New York, who spoke at the same affair, was sarcastically referred to in passing, as a pompous declaimer of the high ideals of the American Declaration of Independence.

Der Fuehrer's paper reserved its bitterest ink for Ambassador Bingham. The attack came after a similar editorial in the government-controlled weekly Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung and charged Bingham's speech "incited the so-called democracies against the so-called dictatorships in almost unbelievable fashion."

Bitterness for Bingham.

The Beobachter particularly assailed the U. S. envoy for his assertion:

"Britain and America tried to lead the peoples of the world into the paths of peace but they would not follow."

"There must be at least a few people there (in dictatorship countries) who realize they are bound to lose in any competitive armament race."

Bingham told the American Society "Despots have forced America and Britain to undertake rearmament and, having undertaken it, we must necessarily win the rearmament race."

(Bingham's only comment in London on the Nazi attacks was "I had my say last night and have nothing more to add.")

Hitler's mouthpiece recalled that both he and Premier Mussolini of Italy repeatedly had emphasized that Nazism and Fascism were not for export.

Ironically observing that what it called the Anglo-Saxon talent for acting as school masters to other nations did not help create better relations in Europe, Hitler's paper concluded:

"Mr. Bingham asks the astute as well as diplomatic question whether there are not at least a few people here who are not entirely insane.

"We reply with equal earnestness: Aren't there in the western democracies at least a few intelligent people who will make it clear to others they are performing a very clumsy service to the old democratic fraternity with such public exhibitions of their arrogance and ignorance."

Treasury Receipts

Washington, July 7 (AP)—The position of the Treasury on July 3: Receipts $29,546,498.13; expenditures $31,028,784.11; balance $2,543,041,995.50. Customs receipts for the month $4,225,-058.76. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $69,784,-469.48; expenditures $204,243,-739.92, (including $25,537,528.54 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures $134,459,-270.44. Gross debt $36,534,250,-291.82, a decrease of $2,595,-639.19 under the previous day. Gold assets $12,346,585,557.82, including $1,115,197,673.96 of inactive gold.

Fur Agreement

New York, July 7 (AP)—An agreement between the International Fur Workers' Union and A. Hollander and Son, covering plants in Newark and Long Branch, N. J., and Middletown and Mount Vernon, N. Y., was announced yesterday by Michael Hollander, president of the company. Hollander said that in recognizing the union his company abandoned a 19-year-old policy of operating on an open-shop basis. He expressed satisfaction with the agreement, which calls for wage increases, a 35-hour week and improved working conditions.

More Than 360 Imprisoned

Kyoto, Japan, July 7 (AP)—More than 300 students of Doshisha University, most important seat of Christian learning in Japan, were imprisoned today in the university chapel by student strike agitators. Gendarmes came to the assistance of the faculty but failed to force open the chapel doors. Agitators armed with clubs stood guard at the entrances. It was feared military authorities might be required to take a hand in settlement of the dispute which was said to have arisen among the institution's 4,700 students over policies of the school.

Spic Super Heaven Awaits Divine Flock

Cult Leader and 2,500 Angels Due To Visit Greenkill Park Thursday, Renovated as No. 1 Promised Land

When Father Divine and about 2,500 of his angels arrive in Kingston tomorrow near noon, after a cruise up the Hudson river on the steamer State of Delaware, and begin the three-mile trek to "god's" newest "super-paradise," they will find at Greenkill Park a completely renovated spic and span heaven, according to a report from C. E. Keyser, superintendent in charge.

Just where the steamer will discharge its heavenly body is not known. Chief of Police J. Allan Wood stated this morning he understood the cult leader had been refused permission to dock at the place on the Rondout Creek where the delegations were to have been received.

The trip up the majestic river is scheduled to start at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning. Arrival at Kingston will be about noon, and busses and cars have been provided for many of the multitude. Some of the angels probably will walk to the heaven, but no permit for a parade through Kingston has been issued, so likely there will be no demonstration enroute to the Promised Land.

Divine Lodge, focal point of the many buildings comprising the 177-acre estate, has been placed in A-1 shape, the superintendent stated. Other buildings have been repainted, inside and out, floors have been re-laid, the water system has been repaired, the buildings have been rewired with BX cable and a new wall has been built for the pool, over which a new bridge arches.

A tea room has been added to the dance hall. Mr. Keyser, who has been at Greenkill Park for 20 years and has seen some 50,000 visitors at the former resort, still lives in the old homestead once known as "The Maples," but re-christened by the cult chief as "Lily of the Valley." All of the 30 buildings on the estate have been renamed.

Furnishings, too, have received attention and have been renovated or replaced by new pieces. The hotel kitchen has been completely remodeled and brought up to date and is ready to attend to the "inner wants" of the Divinites.

Senator Guffey Labels Supreme Court Hotspot Of Republican Politics

Washington, July 7 (AP).—Senator Guffey (D-Pa) carried on the administration's battle for its judiciary reorganization program today by charging that the supreme court "has been partisan, prejudiced, and biased in denying workingmen and farmers their fundamental legal rights."

His bluntly-worded speech opened the second day's debate on the compromise court bill, calling for the appointment of one new justice annually to supplement those serving beyond the age of 75.

Guffey said reorganization of the supreme court was necessary "to outlaw economic wrongs and injustices that have been rankling and festering for generations."

"History shows conclusively," he asserted, "that throughout most of its existence the supreme court has been enmeshed in partisan, party politics, that throughout most of its history it has been openly hailed as the last bulwark of reaction * * *."

He accused Chief Justice Hughes of "campaigning politically against the administration's reorganization program" and termed the chief justice's appointment "a juicy political plum" awarded to "a Republican party leader."

Through earlier appointments by President Harding, Guffey contended, "the court was soundly

Lehman Credits State's Reduced Deficit To "Living Far Within Our Income"

Albany, N. Y., July 7 (AP)—Reduction to $10,198,451 of New York's accumulated deficit, compared with the "nearly 100 millions" of 1933, was attributed by Governor Lehman today to living "far within our income" in the last fiscal year.

The new total, lowest since Franklin D. Roosevelt's first term as governor, was attained, the governor said, through application to the deficit of a $45,679,-704 surplus he reported for the fiscal year that ended June 30.

At the same time the governor laid to what he said was the Republican-controlled 1936 assembly's failure to make "proper revenue provision for debt service and state-aid (estimated at $10,746,028)", the fact that the deficit has not been entirely eliminated.

The 1936 assembly deferred part of the debt service item in the executive budget in order to strike out one-cent-a-gallon of the emergency gasoline tax.

The assembly's Republican leadership withheld comment pending study and discussion of the governor's statement.

Reporting the $46,000,000 surplus, the governor said the state's financial accounts "reveal results that will be a source of satisfaction to the people of the state."

The balance, "substantially larger than we dared hope even six months ago," he explained would apply "automatically" toward payment of the accumulated deficit.

"Amounting to nearly a hundred millions four years ago," he said, "this accumulated deficit stood at approximately fifty-six millions at the beginning of the last fiscal year; it now stands at only ten million dollars."

The Lehman figures showed a total deficit of $94,428,496 on June 30, 1933, six months after he succeeded Roosevelt as governor. The amount was reduced to $64,725,778 in 1934, rose again to $97,048,752 in 1935 and dropped to $55,878,155 last year.

Total revenues of $360,870,830, exceeding by $18,399,119 his executive budget estimate, were reported by the governor for 1936-1937 along with the expenditures of $315,191,126, an increase of $5,728,530 over his prediction.

MODENA

Modena, July 6—Bragg Brothers' Show, featuring seven big all star vaudeville acts, singing, dancing, comedians and acrobatic stunts, have pitched their tents in the Modena firehouse lot, and will stage shows each night of next week, commencing Monday night, July 5. Posters advertise George Bragg, king of hypnotists, and Princess Mae, supreme mentalist and mind reader. Show starts 8:30 o'clock.

The Modena baseball team lost a game to the Marlborough team, Sunday afternoon, and on Wednesday at twilight played a game with the Wallkill Legionnaires, on the Wallkill field, when a tie score resulted at the end of the seventh inning. Darkness ended the game. The score was 1-1.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Modena Methodist Church met Thursday afternoon in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. The four quilts, which the members of the society have been working on, are completed and ready for the annual church fair to be conducted October 21. Mrs. Charles Lewis was admitted as a new member in the society. Plans were discussed for a food sale to be conducted Saturday afternoon, July 31, at welfare office in Modena. Orders for food, pastries, cakes or biscuits may be left, prior to the sale, at the Methodist parsonage, the welfare office, or DuBois Grimm's general store. Mrs. Wygant Courter, Sr., and Mrs. Hallock Harris are in charge of arrangements regarding the sale. Tickets were distributed for donations to the supper served in the Community Hall on Monday evening, July 5. Those assisting the chairman, Mrs. Ransel Wager, were members of the Sunday School board, following members of the society, Mrs. William Decker, Mrs. Lillian Rhodes, Mrs. Myron Shultis, Mrs. Wygant Courter, Waitresses were Mrs. William Doolittle, Mrs. Fred Bernard, Mrs. Orville Seymour, Mrs. Leonard Coy, Mrs. Freston Paltridge, Mrs. Charles Lewis, Miss Edith Markle, Mrs. Hector Every, Miss Gladys Coy, Mrs. E. Schoonmaker, Miss Marion Palmer, Miss Helen Palmer, Mrs. Isaiah Wager, Mrs. Ernest Rappleyea. Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck and Mrs. Simeon DuBois were in charge of the dining room. The next meeting of the society will be held Thursday afternoon, August 5, at Mrs. Emory Conklin's home, north of Modena village. Those present at Thursday's meeting were Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mrs. Myron Shultis, Mrs. Emory Conklin, Mrs. George Hartshorn, Mrs. Anna Miller, Mrs. Floyd Wells, Mrs. William Doolittle, Mrs. Wygant Courter, Mrs. Hallock Harris, Mrs. Ira Hyatt, Mrs. Ransel Wager, Mrs. William Decker, Mrs. Philip Solbjor. Iced tea and cake were served by Mrs. George Hartshorn, Mrs. Ransel Wager and Mrs. William Doolittle. Mrs. Alfred Coons of New Paltz was a visitor.

Badge From the Georges

When the late King George was prince of Wales, it occurred to someone to honor him by getting all the prominent Georges of Britain to combine and present him with a badge on which all their names would be inscribed. Dukes and peers, lords and ministers, high churchmen and members of parliament, and among them all, the name of the jeweler's workman, also a George, who, laboring on the badge desired to have his name associated with it, asked, and was graciously given permission.

States and Religion

The first amendment to the federal Constitution states that congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof. Article 6 of the Constitution states that no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States. As Bryce's "The American Commonwealth" points out, every state constitution also contains provisions similar to these, some specifically forbidding the creation of an established church.

SLAIN OVER GOSSIP

May Elvin Allen (above), 17-year-old high school girl, was shot to death at Coushatta, La., in a quarrel stirred by neighborhood gossip. Jessie Pepper, a schoolmate, was arrested.

SHOKAN

Shokan, July 6—William Windrum returned to Shokan Saturday from a business trip to New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moran, and daughter, Barbara, of The Bronx, were holiday visitors at the home of Mrs. Moran's father, Francis Hughes.

A number of old school Baptists gathered at the Olive and Hurley meeting house Sunday morning and afternoon for religious exercises. Elder Arnold Bellows, pastor of the church, was absent at one of his charges in Delaware county.

D. T. Reardon, of Brooklyn, came up Friday to be with his family at their summer home in Mrs. Ella Secor's bungalow over the Fourth.

Louis Thiel, state road farmer, has 15 goats this season, and of these, nine are kids which attract much attention as they gambol in their pasture along the north side of Route 28.

The weir pool below the main dam of the reservoir and other bathing spots in that section were well patronized Sunday. The fine weather also brought many picnickers to the aerator park where the Ashokan's stellar attraction was functioning in all its splendor.

Robert K. Story, of Brooklyn, was a caller in the village center Sunday. The Story family have a summer home on Winchell Mountain.

Joseph Reilly, a summer resident of long standing, came up from New York last week for a sojourn at his place in the village. Mr. Reilly is a veteran newspaper employe, having worked on several metropolitan dailies.

Beginning next Sunday morning the Reformed Church weekly prayer meetings will be held in the church at 11 o'clock. Sunday School will open at 10 o'clock. Communion services will take place the first Sunday in August, following the return of the Rev. August Pfaus from his annual vacation.

The camps and tourist homes of this section did a good business over the holiday. Automobile travel up state route No. 28 on Friday and Saturday appeared fully up to the great influx of visitors immediately preceding Memorial Day. One villager opined that "there must be a million dollars worth of cars in the mountains for the Fourth."

Miss Peggie Schultz, a Newburgh school teacher, was numbered among the thousands of reservoir country visitors Sunday.

Local farmers had a trying time of it last week with their haying operations. There was a lively shower nearly every afternoon, with the result that tons of hay received a good soaking and became greatly reduced in nutriment value. On some farms, hay which was cut on Thursday and Friday still lay in the fields over the week-end. Timothy grass is ready for the harvesting, and one more week of wet weather will so delay its cutting as to make the stalks tough and unpalatable for winter feeding purposes. Clover, which requires more time for its curing than the timothy, also presents a serious harvesting problem for the farmer.

Miss Gladys Secor, a former resident, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Secor, at the family bungalow in the village center.

The Harry Olsen and William K. McCrystal families were at their summer home in one of the Winchell bungalows on the corner for the Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Monaco and son of Hoboken, N. J., came up Sunday for a sojourn at their cottage on Van Steenburgh Hill.

Robert Brown, a Cooper Union student who has summer vacation employment with the Standard Oil chemical laboratories in New York, came up from the city to be with his grandmother, Mrs. Jane Stubley, over the holiday.

The two basins of the reservoir were smooth as mill ponds Sunday, making it easy for the occupants of a dozen or more fishing boats to navigate the waters of this famed fisherman's paradise. The shoreline was dotted with people, many of whom were of the fairer sex.

Raymond Cruthers and family motored up from Ridgefield Park, N. J., to be at their summer home on Church Hill over Sunday.

Mrs. Lily Martins of New York spent the holiday with her grandmother, Mrs. Jane Stubley of The Cairngorm.

Residents of the village center were somewhat annoyed by the noise-making activities of divers city youngsters Sunday morning. Country children for generations have invariably respected the rural aversion to shooting off firecrackers on a Sunday.

Harry Markle and family of Cleveland, O., are spending a few days at the home of Mr. Markle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Markle. Harry for many years has been an office employe of the Hoe printing press concern.

James Donahue of Big Indian has succeeded M. Tremper of Margaretville as star route mail carrier between Kingston and Margaretville.

Mrs. Julia Hogan accompanied her daughter, Mrs. John Hamilton to Kingston Friday to spend a few days with the Hamilton family.

Members of the Joseph Lauber family of New York were at their summer home on the Thiel farm over the holiday.

Ollie Faulkner and family of Rockford, Ill., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Aner Longyear. Mrs. Faulkner is the former Ruth Longyear of Shokan.

Edna Swenson of Locust Valley, L. I., is spending the summer months with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Markle. The little girl is a one time pupil of the Shokan school.

Miss Ann Gruber of Kingston was a week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Elmendorf. Mrs. Earl Dean has returned to her home in Pelham Manor after a visit of several days at the Elmendorf residence.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hazard For Caddies

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—Owner John Williams of the Meadowbrook Golf Course thinks he has stopped caddies from recovering balls from the fourth hole water hazard and selling them back to their rightful owners.

He installed a five-foot alligator in the pond.

He'll Vote Early

Newport News, Va. — Milton Dimm won't be 21 years old until five minutes after election day, November 3, has passed, but he is going to vote. What's more, he will vote in the August 3 Democratic primary.

Legislative candidate Richard Newman dug up an old common law ruling that fractions of a day do not count in computing a citizen's majority. Registrar K. K. Jones registered Dimm.

Walking Home?

San Francisco—Some patrons got huffy and some got off and walked, but the Market Street Railway Company put into effect its two-cent transfer charge. It was the city's first lapse from a straight nickel fare and netted the company $1,500 the first day. The firm estimated it gave out 59,000,000 free transfers last year.

Not a Jail Bird

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—Patrolman Harrington H. Thomas answered a hurry-up call saying a burglar had broken into a home and was ransacking it.

He found a robin flying around the parlor, knocking over vases and pictures. In an adjoining room huddled a frightened maid, who said she had put in the call.

Wolf! Wolf!

Cloudcroft, N. M.—Four buildings burned in this little southwest mountain resort because residents mistook the customary alarm for firecrackers.

The fire signal here is three pistol shots.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO SHOP AROUND for a bargain in ale and beer. The three rings lead you right to America's finest. Try Ballantine's famous brews. Make Peter Ballantine's celebrated threefold test as he did back in 1840. One drink to judge PURITY . . . a second for BODY . . . a third for FLAVOR. On the scoured oak of the table, left by his glass as he made his test, Peter Ballantine found 3 interlocking rings—they became his trademark. Look for the 3 rings of quality, then ask for "Ballantine's!" America's finest since 1840.

Porter picks money out of thin air

Sitting beside the open window of his hotel room on the thirteenth floor, a man was counting his cash on hand. Suddenly a gust of air whisked a banknote out the window.

The man reached for his room telephone and called the operator. She in turn called the ground-floor baggage room and a porter ran to the street. The fluttering bill fell into his outstretched hands.

An extreme example of the way the telephone saves money, perhaps. But every day more and more people are turning to the telephone—from the housewife's call to take advantage of a store's advertised special, to the salesman's call to beat a competitor to an order. It pays to "reach for your telephone before you reach for your hat." New York Telephone Company.

For Boating Wear

For really filthy weather own a thin silk oilskin jacket (zipped from top to bottom) Doesn't crack or peel and fits into a waterproof bag no bigger than your coat pocket You can buy oilskin slacks or shorts, too

Any day now you'll be gone with the wind in clothes that are casual, comfortable and sea worthy We've pictured the Dinghy Suit, a fashion that started at St Tropez one of the famous seaside resorts on the Southern Coast of France. Americans wore the dinghy suit in Nassau last Winter, and now it's worked its way North A jumper with sailor collar and three-quarter sleeves and a pair of loose fitting slacks. The whole outfit is of hardy cotton denim, in a shade of blue like the ocean.

And for sportwear there is a new type of shirt Its newness lies in the fact that the back of the shirt is cut on the bias of the fabric with the result that the fabric stretches across the shoulders where freedom of movement is most necessary. This feature applies in the cases of most fabrics, whether they are of a coarse porous nature or of fine broadcloth or gabardine It is a new way of getting freedom of action without pleats and tucks across the shoulders.

The hat is made of white duck with a small stiff brim lined with green to prevent the glare of sun on water Incidentally, most injury to the eyes from unaccustomed sunlight results from reflection from the water, sand and your own cheek bones

When it's "coming up a blow" you'll be glad enough to slip into a warm sweater We think well of the turtle neck type in lightweight wool.

A good many "old salts" wear the canoe shoe made of elk leather with double, oil-tanned, moccasin sole and rubber heel Can be slipped on and off in a moment, because of the slide fastener, and doesn't slip easily on rocks or decks

Esquire's eti-query

Going through our daily mail for the past few weeks, we find the same questions cropping up again and again, among them being the following.

"May a dinner jacket be worn with white Summer-weight trousers?"

Our answer to that is no. The dinner jacket calls for dress trousers. No hybrid combination of formality and informality is correct, even as a Summer proposition. It is no more correct to wear a dinner jacket with anything other than dress trousers, than it is to wear an ordinary white linen jacket with dress trousers. Dress trousers may be of regulation worsted material, or of mohair, Palm Beach cloth or similar lightweight fabrics, and may be either black or midnight blue.

"What formal attire can I wear when it is too hot for an ordinary tuxedo?"

Fortunately, of late years, men's formal evening fashions for summer, have taken a common sense turn. Based on the premise that a man's chief concern is to keep cool, evening clothes are now comfortable and extremely smart.

At formal evening functions in the country or at smart resorts a man now wears a single or double-breasted dinner jacket of white cotton drill or burma tan Palm Beach cloth or similar type of fabric. The jacket may have either shawl or peak lapels and the trousers of a black or midnight blue summer weight fabric or regulation dress trousers

No longer do you suffer through an evening in a wing collar. The turnover collar worn with a black club, butterfly or Windsor shaped bow tie has largely surplanted it

With double-breasted suit, neither vest nor cummerbund is necessary.

With single-breasted coats, a black, maroon or India madras cummerbund may be worn Shoes should be black patent leather

At semi-formal functions, wear the old standby - the blue serge, flannel or worsted coat, either single or double-breasted, with white flannels. Add a white shirt and a quietly patterned four-in-hand tie, harmonizing socks and white buck or black and white shoes. A business suit of a summer weight cloth is also in order, and of course, the all-white suit.

"What are the proper accessories to be worn with an all-white suit?"

Few articles of attire are as universally becoming to the average male as the white suit. And particularly if worn with equally becoming accessories. Any shirt, preferably collar attached, can be worn with it if it is not too dark a shade White shirts in any of the accepted materials, or blue shirts, such as blue oxford cloth, or champagne or tan can also be worn with the white suit.

EVOLVE SYSTEM FOR ANCHORING SOILS

Federal Experiment Success in California.

Watsonville, Calif.—The Pajaro valley bounded on the east by the Santa Cruz mountains and on the west by Monterey bay famous since the times of the Spaniard Don Gaspar de Portol for its fertility, has become one of the model experiments of the federal government's soil reclamation service

Although it is only two years since the federal government stepped in to reclaim and conserve the district where all of the rich top soil had been washed away apparently beyond all retrieving the district is now being cited by the government as a model for the rest of the country

Unlike most of the devastated farming districts of the country, that of the Pajaro valley was of recent date Yet the results were just the same except that in this case the government, instead of allowing the valley to be abandoned stepped in at once and began its reclamation

Erosion of Recent Date.

It was just three years ago that heavy rains in the hilly farm country of the Corralitos district and the rolling areas of the Valencia district Larken and Pleasant valleys gashed the entire rich top soil and washed it away entirely leaving only ugly furrows and earthen cemetaries that apparently could never again produce crops In fact soil erosion had always been considered by residents of the district as one of the enemies that it would never be possible to overcome

Immediately following the disaster of three years ago the federal government, with an army of experts, stepped in and began the application of the latest methods for soil conservation

The farmers of the four areas most affected were divided into four different organizations with a total membership of 194 representing 8,324 acres of land The work was then gradually extended until it covered 40 000 acres

The first one was that of ditch digging to keep the normal flow of water from rainfalls within well regulated channels These ditches are of various types The first type is that of contour ditching which now protects 1 337 acres as compared with fifteen before conservation work began It is estimated that there are seventy three and one half miles of orchard grade ditches or contour furrows

Vast Network of Ditches.

The latest survey just completed also reveals the following construtions 61 000 feet of concrete lined ditches 77 026 square yards of main diversion ditches, of vegetated types, 16 00 0lineal feet of concrete pipe lines as outlet ditches, 18 000 feet of permanent diversion dikes, concrete lined and 418 small dams and structures erected for permanent gully control

The second phase of the rehabilitation and conservation work has been that of reforestation In conformity with the government's ideas that certain lands are not fit for cultivation and should never be used for that purpose, the farmers involved were finally brought to see eye to eye with the experts on that point and consented to having 300 acres set aside for woodland pasturing and another 1 843 acres planted as wood lots.

Under the reforestation aspect of the work, which has just begun, more than 300 000 trees and shrubs will be set out to prevent destructive washing out of productive soil The principal trees to be used are eucalyptus, pine, redwood, Douglas fir, hardwood, Siberian elm, green ash, black walnut, locust, pampas and shrubs, Lippia, wild blackberry for gully control, ceanothus, buck rush and wild lilac.

The government of Ecuador has placed a tax of $1 on [illegible] desiring to explore the [illegible] lands of that country. The fee is good for six months.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 7, 1937

A BIG IMPROVEMENT

The ordinance regulating the sale, use and storage of fireworks and explosives used to produce pyrotechnic effects, adopted by the Common Council last August, helped to a degree to make this year's celebration of Independence Day a safer and saner one. The number of serious accidents was greatly reduced this year. There were a number of children, however, treated at the hospitals for minor burns from exploding fireworks and one child is still in the hospital with an eye injury. There is still room for improvement and before another Fourth of July rolls around a stricter ordinance should be passed and enforced by the police.

The city that permits the promiscuous firing of explosives is now the exception and greater progress in the future is hoped for. The awful cost in life and limb to young boys and girls each year is an answer to those who might be of the opinion that the children are being deprived of real pleasure. Observance of the nation's birthday does not call for such sacrifices.

Although the local casualty list was high, it was not as bad as in previous years and for this we are thankful to the members of the Common Council for their contribution to safeguarding the youth of the city.

Considering that the Fourth fell this year on Sunday and was celebrated on Monday, the parents and children generally cooperated in waiting until Monday for their displays. Under the provisions of the ordinance display of fireworks was permitted on Monday only. The ordinance also placed restrictions on the size of fireworks to be sold and discharged.

Despite the exceptionally heavy traffic here over the week-end and holiday not an automobile accident was reported to the police in which the occupant of a car was injured. This local record is the more notable when the nation's death toll piled at 563, the highest ever recorded, is considered. The achievement is noteworthy and reflects to the credit on the part of those who in a way helped to make this year's celebration safe and sane.

TINY HOWLAND

Howland Island, which Miss Earhart and her navigator, Paul Noonan, passed in their Pacific flight, is a pretty small speck of land to land in a very expansive ocean. It is a 1½-mile-long treeless sandspit. It has been uninhabited until two years ago. At that time it was chosen, because of its strategic location on a direct line between Australia and Hawaii, as one of several mid-Pacific bases for emergency aviation landing fields, meteorological observation posts, and so on.

Howland is 1,900 miles southwest of Honolulu. To make use of it, airplanes must have almost perfect navigation and enough gas to make the long flight in spite of headwinds. Right now it seems extremely difficult to hit that spot with enough accuracy for safety. When there is regular scheduled air service from Australia to America Howland will be no harder to find than any landing field anywhere.

PROFITS

"Production for profit" is the capitalist way, and is right and inevitable under our American system. The trouble is that so many producers, large and small, seem to consider only an immediate profit, not a continuing profit. The latter can come only from a living annual wage, adequate for the workers, both in blue jeans and white collars, who provide the big market.

The cart is put before the horse when profits are put before wages. Only through good, steady wages can come good, steady profits. Good business depends as surely on the circulation of money as good health depends on the circulation of the blood. Some of our manufacturers, who saw that long ago, are now very rich.

MAN AND NATURE

Nature is terrible in some moods, but man is still ahead of nature in destructive power. Some of our strikes this year have cost more than our floods or dust storms. Man can do more harm just by doing nothing than Nature can by doing her darnedest.

War is a still better example. The last big war cost more than $100,000,000,000 to start with, more than all the fires and earthquakes and floods in history. And when the next World War opens up, Nature will learn more than ever what a piker she is.

That Body of Yours

ARTHRITIS

So widespread is rheumatism or arthritis, notwithstanding the great increase in the knowledge of the causes and in methods of treatment, that governments, medical societies, and others are forming organizations everywhere to fight this painful and crippling ailment.

That infection somewhere in the body, often aided by a cold, wet climate or too much starch food are the commonest causes is now admitted. And the usual treatment is the removal of the cause and the use of salicylates or sulphur internally together with heat in some form.

As rheumatism affects the ends of the bones forming joints, sometimes forming excess bone tissue, and sometimes wearing away (erosion) some of the bone tissue, the idea of using tremendous doses of vitamin D, the vitamin that helps to form calcium or lime in the body, has been tried out by Dr. R. T. Farley, Chicago. The results are recorded in the Illinois Medical Journal, Chicago.

"The patients (twenty-seven) were entirely unselected, being one group appearing in Dr. Farley's private practice and remaining under treatment sufficiently long to make an accurate report.

The entire group was given very large doses of vitamin D. The preparation used is a capsule containing 50,000 to 100,000 international units of vitamin D. The beginning dose was usually 200,000 units a day, increased in obstinate cases to from 300,000 to 600,000 units daily. The very high dosage was given only when the patient was in hospital where close observation was possible.

In severe cases of atrophic arthritis—where ends of bones forming the joints were partly worn away—there was the reduction or disappearance of pain, and the X-ray showed a remarkable degree of "repair" of the ends of the bones and the ligaments which hold the ends of the bones together.

In severe cases of hypertrophic arthritis—where excess bone is formed on the surface of the bones forming the joints—there was a resorption or disappearance of this excess bone."

"Not only were the symptoms of pain and stiff joints relieved but the general condition of the body was improved as evidenced by gain in weight, appearance and well being."

There is in this mass dose of vitamin D a new method of treatment which appears to offer much hope in the treatment of arthritis, fibrositis, neuritis and kindred conditions.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: When Kay Crandon's Lazy Nine ranch house and barn burn, Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy her ranch and court Kay. But she hates him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hired, stirs the outfit to cut its own timber and rebuild without pay. Hastings sends his cowhand Scrap Johnson to tie up the only available timber land. But Ted wins the race for an option, then whips Scrap for molesting Kay and leaves him unconscious on the mesa.

Chapter 10

Turning The Tables

IT WAS a good half hour after Kay and Ted had left him on the mesa before Scrap Johnson came back to consciousness. He stirred painfully, tried to sit up, then fell back as he felt himself constrained by the ropes that bound him.

Swearing to himself, he strained against his bonds, and gave a snarl of satisfaction as he felt them give slightly. Alternately resting and working to loosen the knots in the rope, he finally cleared himself and staggered to his feet.

His jaws ached and his face was ugly with rage as he slowly started back to the Flying Six on foot. He had not gone far when he saw a cloud of dust in the distance, and emerging from it the figure of a horseman coming toward him at a full gallop.

As he recognized Josh Hastings, Scrap Johnson's jaw set and his hand made an instinctive grab for his gun. A savage oath burst out as he encountered the empty holster.

He had no illusions as to the reception he would get from his boss. Failure was the one thing for which Josh Hastings had no patience or sympathy, and his fiery temper when he was thwarted was something to reckon with.

Scrap fired a shot that sent Josh Hastings' hat spinning.

"What's the meaning of this?" Josh Hastings pulled his plunging mount to a sliding halt as he came abreast of the plodding puncher. "Where's your cayuse? And where's that option I sent you to get?"

Resentment flared into Scrap Johnson's eyes, and in his reckless mood it was well for Josh Hastings that his holster was empty.

"You were too damn slow," Scrap Johnson snarled. "They beat you to it."

A dark flush came over Josh Hastings' florid face. He swore.

"You mean you let Kay Crandon get there ahead of you?"

"Sure I didn't," Scrap answered sullenly. "I stopped her all right. But when I got to Old Man Warren, I found one of her punchers, a guy named Gaynor, had got there ahead of me, and bought up the ridge you wanted and an option on the rest."

Taunts For Hastings

HASTINGS exploded into a string of oaths. "The foxy little filly!" he raged, then broke off short and looked keenly at Scrap. "What do you mean about stopping her? Where is she?"

A reckless disregard of consequences suddenly possessed Scrap. He was slated to be fired anyway, so he might as well get all the revenge he could.

"Wouldn't you like to know?" he jeered. "I've beaten you to it with those red lips, anyway! And believe me they ain't waiting around for you! That same Gaynor guy came up and caught me off guard, damn him, but I'll get even yet!" He gave a wild incoherent laugh at Hastings' expression. "Some rival you've got there!" he ended, "and is she sweet on him? Oh, boy!"

"Shut up, you drunken fool!" Josh Hastings reached over and grabbed his shoulder. "Give me this whole thing straight!"

"You've got the whole thing straight enough!" Scrap wrenched himself away. "I'm resigning from your outfit anyway, here and now."

"Resigning like hell!" Josh Hastings roared. "You're fired, and the quicker you vamoose from this range, the better!"

"This don't seem to be my popular day!" Scrap Johnson swaggered insolently. "Your sweetheart's boy friend threatened to kill me the next time he saw me. Maybe you can figure why?" he taunted.

A look of cunning flashed into his face at an idea that suddenly struck him, and he reeled over close to Josh Hastings' mount, where his eye had caught sight of a gun in the saddle pocket.

Before Josh Hastings could recover from his renewed conviction that he was dealing with a drunken man, Scrap had grabbed the gun and covered him with a lightning draw.

"Hist 'em!" There was nothing drunk about Scrap's tone now, and Josh Hastings dropped his reins and reluctantly obeyed.

"Seein' as how I'm through with this range anyway, I'll make my exit in style," Scrap sneered. "Suppose you unfasten that belt of yours and toss it over here?"

"You'll pay for this good and plenty," Josh Hastings raged as he obeyed.

"I'm not sticking around to make any payments." Scrap stooped to pick up the belt with its holster and gun attached, with his left hand. He never took his eye from Josh Hastings or shifted his aim.

That Hike Back

HOOKING the belt over his arm, Scrap reached over and grabbed the bridle of his victim's mount.

"Get down!" he ordered, his gun unerringly trained on his former boss. "Now, vamoose yourself," he ended ferociously, when this last command had been obeyed. "You can have that hike back instead of me!"

As Josh Hastings hesitated, Scrap shifted his aim the fraction of an inch, and sent a shot that nipped the brim of his victim's 10-gallon hat, and sent it spinning to the ground.

Without waiting for a further reminder, Josh Hastings turned and headed for the Flying Six, spluttering with inarticulate rage.

After watching him for a second, Scrap Johnson swung into the saddle, and headed at a gallop for the distant blue ridges of the Bitter Root mountains.

By the time Josh Hastings reached home, his rage was no longer inarticulate, but it was none the less intense.

In the two hours during which he had indulged in the unaccustomed exercise of trudging painfully across the hard sun-baked surface of the range, he had had plenty of time to face the bitter truth that he had not only been made a fool of by his former cowhand, but by Kay Crandon as well.

Just when he had seemingly had everything in his own hands, the tables had been turned, and he was now apparently farther than ever from accomplishing his ends.

The appearance of Ted Gaynor on the scene particularly enraged him, and the taunting hints that Scrap Johnson had thrown out about his being Kay's "boy friend," made him see red.

The thought of any rival was intolerable, but the idea that the man whom he believed he had put down once and for all in the past should come back to challenge him was an added outrage.

(Copyright, 1937, Marie de Nervaud)

Josh Hastings finds his two enemies at his mercy, tomorrow, and plots revenge.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Thomas-Weaver

New Paltz, July 7 — Dorothy Jean Weaver, daughter of J. Wells Weaver, became the bride of Sidney Thomson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Thomson of Rochester and New Paltz on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The ceremony was performed on the lawn of the bride's home by the Rev. Gerret J. Wullschleger, pastor of the New Paltz Reformed Church. A reception followed for relatives and friends. Miss Weaver wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory satin embossed with roses and a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley. Patricia Ann Weaver, sister of the bride, attended the bride, and wore a Kate Greenaway frock of pink organdy and carried a nosegay. Ensign Peter Gold, U. S. N. R. officer in the Merchant Marine, was the best man. The bride was graduated from Oakwood Scoool and the New Jersey College for Women. Mr. Thomson was graduated from East Orange High School, East Orange, N. J., and the New York Merchant Marine Academy. He has been operating a dairy farm at New Paltz for several years. Mr. and Mrs. Thomson are spending their honeymoon at Lake Minnewaska.

Miss Mitchell to Wed

New Paltz, July 6—Helen Margaret Mitchell of Yonkers and a graduate of New Paltz Normal School will become the bride of William F. Cronin of Tarrytown Saturday, July 10. The wedding will take place in St. Mary's Church, Kingston, at 3:30. A reception for 50 will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel after the ceremony after which the couple will depart on a wedding trip and upon their return reside in Tarrytown.

Will Wed Saturday.

New Paltz, July 6.—Miss Dorothy Gertrude Holzwarth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob A. Holzwarth, of Poughkeepsie, and Albert W. Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lawrence, will be married on Saturday, July 10, in St. Paul's Church by the Rev. Frank Wilson, of St. James Church in Hyde Park, at 9:30 in the morning. The church will be decorated with summer flowers. A hundred guests will attend the wedding. The bride will be given in marriage by her father and will be attended by Miss Ruth E. Lawrence as maid of honor. Charles DuBois will be the best man. A reception for members of the immediate families will follow the ceremony at the Beekman Arms in Rhinebeck. Following a wedding trip to the Adirondack Mountains the couple will make their home at Ballston Lake.

Girl Scouts Entertained.

New Paltz, July 6.—Miss Helen Hasbrouck, captain of the local Girl Scouts, entertained the troop at their final meeting for this year at her home on Thursday evening. A short business meeting was held after which Miss Hasbrouck awarded the following badges for work accomplished during the year: Margaret Kevan, swimmer, gold star for perfect attendance. Katherine Beebe, health, gardener, hostess, gold star. Marie Jenkins, music, silver star for 90 per cent average attendance. June Chambers, tree finder, fresh water finder, music, rambler. Helen Bleecker, health, hostess, music, gold star. Jean Ford, photographer, child nurse, gold star. Marie Kiernan, gold star. Gladys Davis, gold star. Laurel DuBois, silver star. Marian Furphy, gold star. Georgette Fairbanks, silver star. Second class badges: Jean Elting, Betty Staats, Elsa Van Orden, Connie Pedersen, Betty Benjamin. Phyllis DuBois won the prize for the best nature note book. Two girls were chosen to go to Camp Wendy for a week. They were Mary Glancy and Betty Benjamin. The remainder of the evening was enjoyed in playing games. Refreshments were served.

MILTON

Milton, July 6.—The Ladies' Needlecraft Society of the Milton Presbyterian Church will hold its annual fair and cafeteria supper on the church lawn Friday afternoon and evening, July 9.

Karl Ernest, Miss Tessie Abbruzese and Albert Kingsley registered at New York University on Monday, July 5, for the summer session. Miss Abbruzese will take up more science and educational courses, while Mr. Kingsley will specialize in mathematics.

Mrs. Jeremiah Driscoll, in looking over some old newspaper files, found two issues of the New York Times dated Thursday, July 4, 1861, and Saturday, July 4, 1863.

Thomas Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Bailey, was graduated from Holderness Preparatory School, Plymouth, N. H., June 14. Thomas, accompanied by Foster Richards and Stephen Middlebrook of Chatham, N. J., and James Richards of Highland, have been spending several days in Compat Center Harbor, Me.

The Milton Library drive, which was launched during the first week in May, is nearly completed. The sum of $159 in cash and $30 in pledges have been turned in to the treasurer so far, according to Miss Lula Clarke, president of the Milton library board. The drive is not quite completed and the receipts will come far from meeting the usual budget. In the past a school appropriation of $300 has been granted. However due to the absence of this grant the need for a different source of income is necessary.

The W. C. T. U. Medal Contest Committee was at the home of Mrs. C. R. Taber Monday evening and arranged and assigned the selections for the contest. Mrs. Edward Wood is committee chairman. The date has not been set for the presentation. The July meeting will be held Friday, July 16, in the home of the president, Mrs. C. R. Taber. The meeting is postponed for one week on account of the Presbyterian Church fair July 9.

Scout David Bell, who is the Milton Troop's representative at the National Boy Scout's Jamboree at Washington, D. C., reports that he is having a grand experience and a thrill of a life time. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bell received a Jamboree Journal, the official Scout publication at the camp along the Potomac every day, besides the general radio broadcasts to the fathers and mothers of scouts.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church was entertained at the home of Mrs. F. W. Woolsey Friday afternoon. Arrangements were made for the church fair which will be held on the church grounds, Friday, July 30. The regular meeting of the society will be held Friday afternoon, July 23, at the home of Miss Rachel Clarke. Miss Catherine McCord will be assistant hostess. Final plans for the fair will be made at that meeting.

Miss Anna Barber, of Meechanicsville, has been selected by the board of education of the Marlborough Central Schools to teach Latin and Italian in the high school next year. She has already accepted the appointment. The courses in Italian will be an addition to the school's curriculum. The Latin classes were taught last year by Harold McCourt, of Marlborough. His preparation in college and in graduate work was rather for social science than for Latin teacher. Next year, however, he will have a chance to teach courses of his choice. He will be in charge of Junior High School history. Miss Barber is of Italian descent and is a young woman with unusually fine training. She is a graduate of Albany State Teachers College, where she was awarded a Master's degree in 1936. Since then she has been doing further graduate study. This summer she is specializing in Italian at Middlebury College in Vermont.

Mrs. Edgar M. Clarke, Sr., aand son, of Colton, Calif., were expected to arrive in Milton this week for a visit with relatives. Mrs. Clarke and son left California May 29 by automobile, and were stopping at places of interest enroute.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO

July 7, 1917.—Eugene Van Wagenen of New Paltz appointed supervisor of that town to fill vacancy caused by the death of Supervisor Joseph H. Vanderlyn.

George Cohen of Poughkeepsie withdrew from the Wall street theatre project.

Reuben S. Hardenburgh died at his home near Wallkill.

July 7, 1927.—The firm of Rosenthal & Braun on Fair street dissolved, with the business being carried on by William Rosenthal.

Joseph Uhl of Ravine street sustained broken leg in a fall from a cherry tree.

Mrs. William F. Mellert died at her home in Zena.

METTACAHONTS.

Mrs. Harry Osterhoudt spent Wednesday with her sister, Mrs. Benjamin Hornbeck, and daughter, of Lyonsville.

Mrs. Frederick Keddie and daugter of Yonkers are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kelder and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Terwilliger of Wallkill and Mrs. Mary Osterhoudt called on Mr. and Mrs. Eli Rider and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rider and son Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wager and Mrs. R. Wager of Lyonsville spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Osterhoudt and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Osterhoudt and daughter.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — New York is a place where you may book passage to the Orient, gamble away your earnings, attend divine services, become intoxicated, receive instructions in fencing, and outfit yourself in smart haberdashery—all in the same block.

It is where press-agents think nothing of organizing communist parades — so the marchers can carry banners ballyhooing their shows. What else happens here? Well, New York is—

Where a well-known woman novelist is nick-named "Hush." But this is really sarcasm. She is a chatter-box and can't be hushed.

Where a critic, visiting a star back stage after panning her play, was bitten so viciously by the star's pet pooch that he had to be rushed to a hospital. . . . After that the pooch was known as "Anti-toxin."

WHERE department stores are so spacious that you can ride 40 minutes on the escalators.

Where a noted playwright, soured at the reception his plays had been receiving, made a public address in which he denounced the critics as incompetents and degenerates.

Where nightlife is so mechanically contrived that when buttons are pushed, the roofs of nightclubs slide out of sight, leaving the patrons under the stars.

Where a French restaurant is so "French" that the management even refuses to give away matches.

Where commerce is so varied that Passion Fruit stands and shoe-shine parlors occupy the same stalls.

Where Harry Richenbach once dragged a live lion into a hotel lobby to advertise a jungle film.

Where you can see stay-at-home housewives and voyaging sailors washing their clothes in East River. The wives are from Brooklyn or the New York East Side, but the sailors are from Peru, China, Norway, and other places.

WHERE wild baby turkeys are priced at $3.00, and delicious (that's what they think) rattlesnake sandwiches are retailed at 65 cents.

Where frequently the flags of 50 nations dot the waterfront simultaneously.

Where Mah Jong is still a craze and the play is for high stakes—but it's chiefly among the shopkeepers of Chinatown.

Where Charlie MacArthur signs his name "Mr. Helen Hayes," and Sinclair Lewis, denying his identity, pans his own books in the presence of strangers.

Where nudity is banned on the stage but goes unnoticed on the street — for instance, any East River dock is alive with unclothed youngsters who swim without benefit of anything.

The Explanation

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"YOU won't have to pay for anything, and you may have all you want to eat. I'm sure your animals must be hungry," the man continued.

As the animals heard this, they began to cackle and bleat and caw and bark and growl and quack: "You're a sensible man."

"I said he had a kind face," barked Rip.

"The animals must have an idea what I mean," the man went on happily. "They seem like a very intelligent lot. I'm sure they're good performers."

Now what did the man mean by all this? Willy Nilly was alarmed. They had had such a peaceful trip so far. Would this man get hold of some circus friend of his who might succeed in getting all these dear, dear friends away? Not that they would ever want to leave him—but would force be used on all of them? Willy Nilly wished he had not stopped. He wished, too, that he could get along to another place without buying gasoline but he feared he could not.

"My animals are intelligent," said Willy Nilly, "because they are used to being with me. They do not care to be with anyone else. I do not know how they would behave without me. Besides I have money to pay for the gasoline and oil. I do not want a bargain."

"You mustn't be excited, my little man," the owner of the gasoline station said quietly now, and Willy Nilly realized his voice had been high and shrill. "I just wondered if you would all help me out for a day or so. That is all. I'll explain what I mean."

Willy Nilly was relieved that they were only wanted for a day or so!

Robert Elwyn Stars At Maverick July 8 In 'Night Must Fall'

Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at 8:45 o'clock Robert Elwyn will step forth from his behind the scenes role as managing director of the Maverick Theatre to take the lead in Emlyn Williams' success mystery drama,: "Night Must Fall."

"Nnght Must Fall" will find Robert Elwyn enacting one of his most successful parts, and those who attended performances at the Maverick Theatre in the last three years will recall to what a degree of excellence he is able to attain.

Mr. Elwyn will be supported by outstanding stars of Maverick productions, including Miss Velma Royton, Miss Betty Macdonald, Miss Frances Bavier, Miss Betty Sittler, Miss Nina Partridge, as well as other favorites, including Don McHenry, Robin Batcheller and Bob Smith.

Frank Rothe, who has won highest acclaim for his acting in the two smash-hit productions given so far this summer, "The Bishop Misbehaves" and "First Lady," is directing this week's show.

Square Dances to Feature Barn Party

Just how much public interest there is in the recently organized Ulster County Theatre movement is expected to be made evident on the evening of July 15, when a benefit performance is to be given in the large barn in the rear of John E. Weber's residence, 60 West Chestnut street.

This benefit performance in aid of the county theatre movement will feature square dances of the Civil War period, depicted in costume by the performers who introduced them so successfully at Woodstock's recent sesquicentennial celebration. The dancers, under the direction of Dyrus Cook, will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lapo, Mr. and Mrs. Benson Lapo, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilber, Craig Vosburg, Charles Morrison, Alfred Van Etten, Edward Meyrs, Miss Fritzi Smith, Miss Mary Boggs, Mrs. Hazel Park, Mrs. Sylvia Williams, Mrs. Gladys Feeley, Mrs. Ethel White and Mrs. Charles Keefe.

Music for the dances will be played by the Wheel Inn Orchestra, consisting of Charles Keefe, Miss Edna Keefe, George Van Bramer, Dale Clark and Walter Shultis. Callers will be Percy Hill and Benson Lapo.

The festival of interest in square dances brought about by the Woodstock sesquicentennial may lead to a county wide contest with square dancers representing the various communities of the county competing.

A feature of the performance of July 15 will be solo dances contributed by Ted and Otillia Riccobono. Tickets for the event may be obtained from Ann Herzog Olson, secretary of the association, at 171 Wall street. The association is planning to issue a booklet describing in detail the plans for the little theatre movement in the county, and also will sponsor a play to be presented in the fall. For the play, the Ulster County Theatre Association will have the benefit of members of the Kingston Players Guild, which has decided to merge with it.

Community Night At Barmann Park

Thursday evening at Barmann Park will be held the first of a series of Community Night programs sponsored by Playground Director William J. Reardon, Jr. The feature of this week's program will be a father and son softball game, which promises to provide thrills aplenty. The youngsters are gathering together a team which they hope will humble the old timers. It is expected that there will be a large attendance of mothers at the game to watch their husbands and sons clash.

A pet show will also be held for the little children, and prizes will be awarded for the most unusual pet, the funniest dressed pet and the most beautiful pet.

Following the program plans will be made for the organization of the parents of the children. This Community Council, similar to the P.-T. A. of the schools, will act in an advisory capacity to the playground directors.

Last Saturday a doll fashion show was held at the playground and first prize was won by June Gakenheimer, who had the best dressed doll. Kathleen Lampman won the other event by having a doll wearing the best sport costume. Over 20 dolls were entered in the contest which was judged by Mrs. Henry Millonig and Miss Althea Schaefer, playground director.

Plan to Eliminate Railroad Crossings

need not be included in the list of crossings proposed to be eliminated as there is an outstanding order for the elimination of that crossing and, if and when, any comprehensive scheme is ordered for the elimination of all the crossings then the order for the elimination of the Broadway crossing can be modified to meet such comprehensive plan.

To Draft Petition

With the council adopting a resolution directing the city engineer to prepare a list of the grade crossings it was desired eliminated together with an estimate of the cost of eliminating each crossing it is expected that as soon as the engineer has done so that a new petition will be drafted and forwarded to the state commission.

A petition from William C. DeWitt asking that the council amend the city zoning Law so that the property at 2 Pearl street could be placed in the business instead of the residential zone, was read and referred to the laws and rules committee.

McEntee St. Widening

The Board of Public Works forwarded to the council a resolution it had adopted at the June meeting approving an agreement reached between the board and James F. Dwyer and the Coykendall estate to the effect that sidewalks would not be required to be laid along the property on McEntee street now controlled by Dwyer and Coykendall.

Alderman Peyer introduced a resolution approving the action taken by the public works board.

The city is considering widening McEntee street from Broadway to Wurts street, and Superintendent Conway of the board has prepared a plan which was approved at the June meeting of the board and he was directed to proceed to obtain necessary rights of way to place the plan in operation.

Zone Law Amended

Before the council met Tuesday a public hearing was held on the petition to place the old S. R. Deyo residence on Downs street, near Broadway, in the business instead of the residential zone. No one appeared in opposition at the hearing, and later at the council session an ordinance amending the zoning law and placing the property mentioned in the business zone was unanimously adopted.

Resolutions Introduced.

The following resolutions were introduced and referred to the various city boards:

By Alderman Reilly: That all streets in the Thirteenth ward be repaired.

Alderman Lukaszewski: That sewer be extended out Second avenue as a WPA project; that stop signs be placed at First, Second and Third avenues where they intersect Delaware avenue, also stop sign at Lincoln street and East Chester street; that holes be filled in First, Second and Third avenue and on Moore street, Rock street, Hasbrouck Place, Cross street, Livingston street, Larch street and High street.

Alderman Epstein: That public works board repair Ann street, Chambers street, Newkirk avenue, East Pierpont street, Murray street and Meadow street.

Alderman Cornwell: That holes in Marius street be filled and also those in Pine street, between Henry street and Greenkill avenue.

Alderman Murphy: That laws and rules committee investigate legality of having all junk yards in the city fenced in; that East Strand be reconstructed at once; that duplication of street names be checked by the proper city department.

Alderman Renn: That Prospect street and Van Buren street be rebuilt as WPA projects; that the holes in Cedar street be repaired.

Tests by Purdue University agricultural experts show that toxic fluids in young cocklebur sprouts are poisonous to livestock.

Dyer Indicted As 1st Degree Killer

Los Angeles, July 7 (AP).—Small, swarthy Albert Dyer, accused of murdering and ravishing three little school girls, was well launched today on the legal path the state declares will end at the gallows.

The county grand jury, meeting in special session last night, returned indictments charging the 32-year-old WPA school crossing guard with first degree murder.

Dyer is accused of having lured Madeline Everett, 7, her sister, Melba, 9, and Jeanette Marjorie Stephens, 8, into the Baldwin hills a few miles from their Inglewood homes June 26, strangling them and violating their bodies.

The haggard, tousle-haired prisoner shouted as the indictments were being read in court: "I plead guilty."

He was told the action was futile at the time. During arraignment before Superior Judge Thomas I. Ambrose, he fainted and was carried unconscious back to his cell.

Dyer was the chief witness before the jury. Composed and speaking in a low voice, he recounted how he killed the children, District Attorney Buron Fitts said.

Dyer wept when he reached the part of his story where he knelt and prayed for his victims, the district attorney related.

Other witnesses were officers who investigated the case, and county doctors who examined the bodies. The jury, deliberating only a few minutes, voted the indictments 48 hours after Fitts announced Dyer had confessed.

9 Held for Charity Swindle in Nation

New York, July 7 (AP).—A charity donation scheme in which Detective Thomas E. Croak estimated nearly 35,000 persons in many parts of the country were victimized, has led to the arrest of nine men on charges of soliciting and obtaining funds under false pretenses.

The arrests were made yesterday in the basement of the Brooklyn home of one of the men, who gave his name as Fred Avery. All gave New York addresses. Police said they had listened to conversations conducted over five telephone wires installed in the basement offices.

Croak said he believed the men had obtained about $30,000 through their operations by representing themselves as agents of various well known charitable institutions, and in several instances as officials of the Island Park, L. I., Nassau county and West New York, N. J., police.

Arresting officers, of whom Croak was one of four under command of Captain John J. Lahey, said they had learned that the men planned to close the Brooklyn office today and go to Asbury Park, N. J., to stage a circus for the crippled children of Asbury Park, Long Branch, Red Bank and Freehold, N. J.

Their plans called for a 25 per cent donation to charity and a gross return of 75 per cent out of which expenses were to be paid, Croak said.

JERSEY CITY TRUCK DRIVER FINED ON TWO COUNTS

Angelo Faziole, 25, truck driver of 266 Sixth Street, Jersey City, arested at Lake Katrine Tuesday by Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Keefe, was fined $5 each on two counts when arraigned before Justice Walter Webber. He was charged with failure to have flares on his truck and also with violation of section 167 of the Labor Law. According to the booking at the Ulster county jail Faziolo has two previous motor vehicle violations against him.

Chlorination Unit Ordered by Board

automatic in operation and cannot under or over chlorinate the water. A visit once a day may be required.

When the board found that suitable equipment of the latest design, and equipment which would meet the requirements of the village, could be bought for $642, it was decided that even though the water supplied to the village was of the highest quality it might be advisable to put in the chlorinating device requested by the state in order that there would be no question as to the purity of the water at all times.

A testing equipment costing $36 will be installed and it was also thought advisable to have an engineer from the company install the equipment. This will cost $12 a day and the work can be done in a day. Installation of a gate above the plant is also recommended. Alterations to a building now on the site can be made for $100 to house the plant. In normal operation the plant will use four-tenths of a pound of chlorine each 24 hours and the cost when purchased in large quantities is but a few cents a pound.

Meanwhile the village is being supplied as usual during the summer months with water tapped from the New York city aqueduct and the reservoir on the mountain is held in reserve for high pressure needs in case of fire. Conditions in the vicinity of the reservoir are also being altered so as to warrant a pure supply of water and eliminate any possibility of contamination from outside sources.

Normal School Offers 4th Year

For the first time in the history of the New Paltz Normal School evidences of a fourth year appears and among the courses offered this year at the present Summer School is a full summer's work on the fourth year level. This work counts toward making the teaching certificate issued to graduates of the school a permanent life license to teach in the public elementary schools of the state of New York.

This year's curriculum is of especial importance and interest because of this fourth-year course. It is expected that the offerings on the fourth-year level will be increased year by year until a full fourth year of work is given at New Paltz.

Such action would be conductive to a change in the status of the school and probably in a few years the village school will become a college with power to grant a degree. Attendance at the summer school this year is greater than in the past with an increase of about 40 over last year.

Ask Law To Impose 1% Tax

1937 amount to $51,491.53 against the New York Telephone Co. to $19,246.90.

The state has already imposed its own 2 per cent tax. The Mayors' Conference reports that 30 cities have either already enacted the 1 per cent tax or intend soon to do so. It is my belief that most of the remaining cities will do likewise. It will therefore be an established statewide policy which it seems advisable to embrace in spite of its deficiencies and inadequacies.

A Local Law

I therefore recommend to your honorable body that you enact a local law, imposing a 1 per cent tax on the gross incomes of public utilities doing business in the City of Kingston, within the scope and pursuant to authority granted by the general city law of the state of New York, the proceeds of such tax to be used solely and exclusively for relief.

I know that a number of the members of your honorable body are as loath as am I to impose additional taxes. To those, may I propose the following course of action:

Improve Street Lights

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. will pay the major portion of the utility tax to be received by the city, or about $9,000.00 per year. If it meets with your approval, I shall be glad to recommend to the Board of Public Works that we spend some of the money we will save by reason of a reduction in our relief appropriation to the extent of the utility tax receipts for improved street lighting in the downtown business district and on Broadway. I have had estimates prepared for installing a modern underground street lighting system in the downtown business section, using the same ornamental poles and fixtures recently installed uptown. This installation calls for 42 new poles and fixtures, increasing 30 lights from 600 to 1,000 candle power, and the installation of six additional 1,000 candle pawer lights on East Strand, a total increase of 18,000 candle power in the district. On Broadway, the improvement would stretch from the Governor Clinton Hotel to the Orpheum Theatre, and calls for increasing 117 street lights from 600 to 1,000 candle power and the installation of eight additional 1,000 candle power lights in new locations now listed as Broadway dark spots. This would increase street lights by 54,800 candle power on Broadway. This improvement could be made without waiting until the underground system has been installed throughout the entire length of Broadway by using the present poles in interim. The estimated cost of these proposed street lighting improvements is approximately $8,000.00.

By carrying out this proposal, a substantial part of the tax imposed on the local light company would be invested back with the company and a public improvement, making Kingston a safer and better lighted city, with the benefits that accompany such a condition, would result.

Yours truly,
(Signed) C. J. HEISELMAN,
Mayor

CHAZANOF RAPS REPORT ON WOODSTOCK EXHIBITION

Saturday, July 3, 1937

My dear Editor,

Referring to page 11 of the Freeman of Thursday, July 1st whereon appeared a "report" on the initial Woodstock Exhibition, the article sent to you can hardly be called a review, or least of all, a criticism. The cynical words "disappointing, dull, conventional, and monotonous" could well be applied to the report itself rather than the paintings for which these adjectives were intended.

Certainly that writer is not a critic; or else a "critic" who has yet much to learn as to what constitutes a picture, good or bad. Saying nonsense about pictures merely to fill a column as an ultimate end, is not at all any kind of description of pictures. This is a practice unfair and injurious to the artists who are open to constructive criticism. The real critic invariably bases his criticisms on solid and definite proof as to why a picture in his opinion is good, bad, or a "disappointment." The adjectives by themselves are easily spoken and totally meaningless without the proper accompaniment of explanation. The fact remains that the process of painting is long and difficult, and "reports" by unschooled and careless writer, short and easy. With the exception of the complete catalogue listed in the write-up there was not a single passage in the entire article that conveyed the impression of the slightest understanding of painting in general. To say that a picture is "outstanding" without a solid artistic knowledge as to why it is outstanding or why it is "mediocre" or dull" is far from being a review on art.

The report was particularly amusing in its use of the term "photographic school of painting." For the information of the writer, there is no such school nor has there ever been one. What the writer probably had in mind was the school of realism or naturalism. This absurd term "photographic school" has been mentioned on many previous occasions by the same or a similar writer who should be recommended to investigate the difference between mechanical, photographic lens and the sensitive artistic eye empowered by nature and training to perceive natural, realistic impressions. Beyond doubt Eugene Speicher's drawings are dynamic in construction, indeed an excellent example of his draftsmanship. Certainly Mr. Speicher should feel no need whatever "to redeem himself at the directors' how." Such distinguished painters as Eugene Speicher, Sol Melik or Norbert Heerman are neither in need of "redemption nor paint with "photographic" accuracy. If these painters are "photographically" accurate and are "excellent examples in that field" what then would this writer say about Holbein, Raphael, Van Dyke, Ingres, or David?

The figures by Speicher, Melik, or Heerman are charming, filled with honest, healthy sentiment. The modelling and form are set down very freely and plainly. The compositions are wholly unpretentious but sound; the masses placed so as to form simple arrangement contriving a dignified balance of parts. In times like ours when crippled technique occasionally is mistaken for higher talent, artists capable of solving their problems ably and masterfully are often branded as "being photographically accurate."

Very truly yours,
WILLIAM CHAZANOF

Today

Broadway: "Fifty Roads to Town." Laughter and romance and youth join forces in the comedy attraction at the Broadway, a light, entertaining tale that spins merrily through a thrilling story of a boy and a girl on the loose and the troubles they encounter along the way. Don Ameche and Ann Southern are co-starred and the cast features Slim Summerville, Jane Darwell, Alan Dinehart, Stepin Fetchit, Allan Lane and John Qualen. A 20th Century Fox presentation directed by Norman Taurog.

Kingston: "Wings Over Honolulu" and "Border Cafe." Modern airplane history is written in the first feature at the up'own theatre as it describes the birth of the Clipper ships and the conquering of the Pacific by air. Wendy Barrie and Ray Milland are starred. "Border Cafe" is the other full length attraction, a rough and tough story of a border town and of a boy who makes good when the odds seem most against him. Harry Carey and John Beal head the players.

Orpheum: "Damaged Goods." In line with the country's fight to educate the people on the matter of venereal disease comes this film story of the tragedy of innocence and its resulting consequences. It is a timely picture, dressed up for public consumption with a plot that revolves around the misfortune of ignorance and how one person's error can affect the lives and health of many.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Wayne Morris already has learned that a hit picture brings more than fan mail. He has had to surrender his life-long right to his own haircut.

Wayne Morris

The other day I found him, grinning but miserable, in the studio hairdressing department. He had been summoned. It had been observed that his hair was not behaving as stellar hair should. To aggravate the situation, Morris had done what he always did—gone to a barber-shop for a haircut.

So he sat there, and the whole make-up department conferred around him. Principally Joan St. Oegger, the hairdresser, made points.

At the ordeal's end, the Morris thatch was subdued. Plastered down, under a silk stocking cap, it was ordered to remain thereunder until further notice. Wayne didn't mind that so much. It was just this: in future he must get his hair cut at the studio, under direct supervision of the lady hairdressers!

Onward-and-upward note: Three of the year's finer films are proving disappointments at the box-office. "Call It a Day," "Make Way for Tomorrow" and "Captains Courageous."

A Spur To Realism

In "You Can't Have Everything," Alice Faye has to be romantic with Don Ameche. For Alice's close-ups the man just out of camera range is not Ameche, but Tony Martin. Director Norman Taurog thought it might help realism, Tony and Alice being realistically romantic.

For "Lancer Spy," Peter Lorre has most of his head shaved, and wears a twirled moustache, looking like nothing more than a plump caricature of Darryl Zanuck, his boss. Lorre is playing a German officer—pre-Hitler—and his next film is the second "Mr. Moto" number. He won't start it until Mr. Moto's hair grows back.

Telephone Comedy

Sam Goldwyn and Jack Warner were talking via telephone about an exchange of players. Warner told Goldwyn he'd deliver when Goldwyn delivered Miriam Hopkins and stopped stalling.

"I'm telling you, Jack, I'll do what I said," said Goldwyn into the telephone. "Sure as I'm looking at you, I will."

How To Keep Cool

By AP Feature Service

"IS it hot enough for you?" Follow a few suggestions from Dr Robert Olesen of the U S public health service and you won't be stirred into hasty action the next time some perspiring fellow pops that silly question.

First, put your dark-colored clothes in moth balls, says Dr Olesen—they absorb the sun's rays and make you feel hot. Wear white or light-colored ones of loosely-woven material.

Avoid foods that are heating—fruits and vegetables get the doctor's okay. Don't let the nice, cool tinkle of the ice in a tall drink bewitch you—alcohol makes you hot.

Continue to exercise—but before the sun gets high. Loaf in the afternoon. If you must work, be sure there's enough ventilation.

Get enough sleep—don't dance the whole night through.

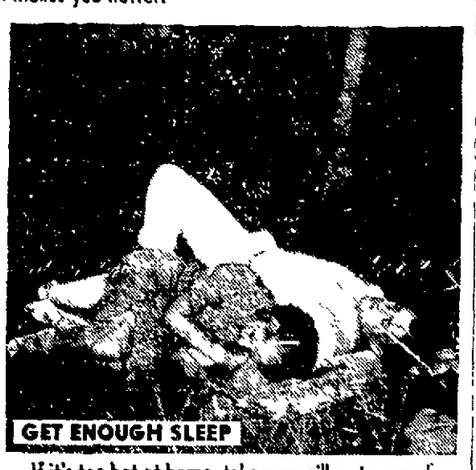
Finally, says Olesen, "Acquire a cheerful and philosophic outlook on life."

WATCH YOUR DRINKS

This action photo caught the gentleman just as he was spurning a cocktail in favor of some nice cool milk. This is an unusually violent form of cocktail-spurning, not recommended in all cases. Just remember that alcohol makes you hotter.

KEEP THE AIR MOVING

A fan helps. A wet sheet hung where the fan will blow on it helps still more—for as the water evaporates, the temperature falls.



GET ENOUGH SLEEP

If it's too hot at home, take your pillow to a park. Lack of sleep—not the heat—is responsible for much of that tired, grumpy feeling.

Mrs. Jane B. Coughlin and Harry L. Kirchner, both of this city, were united in marriage on Saturday, July 3, at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer by the Rev. Russell S. Gaenzle. The attendants were Miss Evelyn M. Kirchner and Odell Black. The bride was former director in charge of the Social Service Exchange in the city hall while the groom is connected with the Poughkeepsie office of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation.

Miss Marjorie Oliver, of Binghamton, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Oliver, of Hurley.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanford Cross of Otis avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Alma M., to Harold E. Macholdt, son of Mr. Henry G. Macholdt, 80 Mary's avenue.

Bridge Christening.

On Sunday, July 4, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hagemeyer, entertained at a picnic supper at their camp, to celebrate the christening of their new hanging bridge over the mountain brook in front of their camp. At 6 p. m. their guests sat down to supper served at long tables in front of a camp fire. After supper the guests were invited by Eugene Hagemeyer, to gather around the new hanging bridge, which was decorated with red, white and blue streamers for its christening. Harry Bailey, of New York city, proprietor of Beechford Farms, Cold Brook, made an address. He then called on Eugene R. Hagemeyer, Jr., to christen the bridge which he did by breaking a bottle of spring water over it and calling it "The Gene Bridge." The guests then gathered around the camp fire and sang. After dark, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Hagemeyer invited their guests to join them out in the open field to enjoy an exhibition of fire works furnished by Albert Cody of New York city. This display was beautiful and lasted for two hours and was enjoyed by about a thousand people who gathered from the surrounding country. The guests at the picnic supper were Mrs. Aldrich; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bailey; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bailey; Thomas Black; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cody; Miss Edna Cody; William Cody; Mr. and Mrs. Ferrier; Wallace Ferrier, all of New York city; Richard Ford, of Willow; Mr. and Mrs. W. MANNERS FOR DATING

What About the Good-Night Kiss?

Should she kiss him goodnight? That's the question every girl who dates must answer.

If she's wise she'll sidestep the issue by not lingering at the door. Or she'll fence laughingly, "No, Bill, not to-night".

Though the boy may think he wants that kiss badly, he also feels that if a girl kisses him, she'll kiss anybody And he likes the sort of girl he can admire.

The girl who's really popular can answer all the questions that arise when boys and girls go out together.

Who thanks whom for the date? The boy, though he's the host, thanks the girl for her company. She shows her appreciation by saying, "That was fun," or "I enjoyed the evening."

The etiquette of asking for or accepting a date? The boy says, "Would you like to go to the dance Saturday?"—not "What are you doing Saturday?" The girl answers "I'd be delighted" or "I'm sorry but I've made other plans." If a date's made far in advance, the boy confirms it with a telephone call a few days before the event.

Whose place to suggest leaving the movie or a party? The girl's and she makes her suggestion reasonably early if she knows the boy must be at class or at work in the morning.

Don't be shy or awkward Knowing what to say or do wherever you go, alone, with a date, or with a crowd gives you charming poise and assurance Our 40-page booklet, ETIQUETTE FOR THE TEENS, tells up-to-date manners for travel, restaurant dining, theatre school dances.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, July 7 (AP).—Selected stocks overrode profit selling in today's market and managed to extend Tuesday's recovery by substantial amounts in many instances.

Rails, Utilities and specialties were well up in front at the opening in which blocks of several thousand shares changed hands. The pace slowed at intervals, but transfers were at the rate of about 1,500,000 shares.

The principal steels failed to make much headway and a wide assortment of yesterday's sprinters ambled in a restricted area.

Ahead fractions to a point or more the greater part of the session were Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Chesapeake & Ohio, Baltimore & Ohio, Consolidated Edison, North American, Western Union, Electric Power & Light, Standard Gas, Foor & Co., Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Loew's Otis Elevator, Libby-Owens, Canada Dry, American Chain, Caterpillar Tractor, Schenley, Oliver Farm, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Cerro De Pasco, du Pont, General Electric, Wheeling Steel and American Can.

U. S. Steel came back after slipping at the start.

Inclined to hang back were Bethlehem, Republic, General Motors, Yellow Truck, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, American Smelting and American Telephone.

Bonds were higher. Commodities were somewhat uneven. London stocks rose. Prices on the Paris Bourse slipped.

Business Outlook Inspires Traders

In a 1,410,000 share market stocks soared yesterday, traders being cheered by business prospects for the second half of the year, and a more favorable outlook for the labor situation.

The Dow-Jones averages showed the highest gain in months. Industrials gained, on the average, 4.58 points, to 176.80; rails were up 1.66, to 53.72 and utilities gained 0.84 point, to 27.87. Both corporate and government bonds gained. Commodities averaged higher, with active trading in wheat and in some cases new highs for the year were reached.

The London market was quiet; Paris market closed strong, as the Bank of France lowered its discount rate to five per cent. from six per cent. There was good demand for American shares on the Amsterdam Bourse.

Administration officials are said to be planning a limitation on wheat trading in all futures; the limits would not affect legitimate commercial transactions. A record high in wheat receipts for one day was made in Kansas City yesterday as winter crop was rushed to market.

Steel scrap continues to advance. At Pittsburgh No. 1 heavy melting advanced another 50 cents, to $19.50 a ton. This is a gain of a dollar in less than a week.

The labor dissension is said to have caused a rift in the steel industry, with the independents fighting. CIO blaming their troubles on the fact that U. S. Steel signed a contract. Consumers of steel are said to have taken sides, holding that those companies fighting CIO are helping for industry generally. As a result independent companies may get a larger share of business when the "war" is over.

Condition of corn market is said to be responsible for reduction in earnings of Corn Products Refining in second quarter as compared with year ago. Earnings for the quarter are around 60 cents a share, vs. 84 cents year ago.

Earnings of Plymouth Oil for first six months are estimated at around $1.31 a share, ahead of a year ago by about 70 per cent. Sunray Oil's net for first six months is estimated at $530,000 vs. $261,172 year ago.

Chevrolet May sales totaled 102,475 units compared with 129,816 year ago.

Curtis-Wright Airplane awarded $4,113,550 Army contract for 210 single place pursuit planes and spare parts; company has unfilled orders amounting to over $25,000,000.

May sales of McKesson & Robbins were $13,603,872, up 19.3 per cent from year ago; H. L. Green had June sales of $2,804,531, up 6.8 per cent from year ago; Sun Ray Drug up 7.3 per cent; Neisner Bros. up 6.39 per cent.

Waukesha Motor declared extra dividend of 25 cents; New York Merchandise one of ten cents; American Equitable Assurance ten cents.

No violence occurred at the opening of three Republic Steel plants in Cleveland. Seven of eight Republic plants in the Canton area were expected to resume normal three-shift operating schedules by this morning.

Rail union officials voted for a strike ballot among 800,000 members; the unions are asking 20 cents an hour increase in pay.

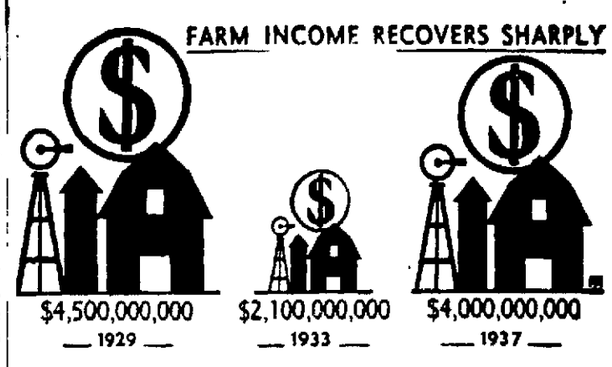
Strike Threatens

New York, July 7 (AP)—A "general" strike in the industry was threatened today as 35,000 workers in 2,000 coat and suit shops in the metropolitan area were ordered to stop work tomorrow. The stoppage was ordered yesterday by the joint board of the Cloakmakers' Union, an affiliate of the International Ladies Garment Workers.

Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy, was born of an Italian father and Irish mother.

Cash Paid To Farmer Reaches 7-Year High



This chart is based on department of agriculture data for the first six months of each year, with 1937 partially estimated.

By A. A. PATTON
Associated Press Statistician

New York (AP)—A triple alliance—higher prices, larger crops and bigger government payments—stepped up the farmer's income in the first half of this year to the highest level since 1929.

Commodity men estimated more than $4,600,000,000 was paid for products of the 6,800,000 farms. That would top the previous half-year by 27 per cent and come close to the $4,200,000,000 collected at the previous high point.

Approximately half the anual farm income flows into the till during the first six months. This means citrus fruits, vegetables, meat and milk account for the bulk of the income, since the major crops—corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco—come along later.

Drouth Helps Prices

Drouth played an important role in this tremendous upswing. Lack of rainfall in 1934 and 1936 left world stocks of major crops at an unusually low ebb. Since steadily expanding industrial activity had fattened the pocketbooks of consumers, small stocks and poor harvests pointed prices skyward.

The situation was aggravated during the early months this year by the appearance of another dry spell in the midwestern "bread basket."

Corn, moving narrowly in the first quarter, rocketed 22 per cent to a 17-year top in late May. Analysts found the rise carried far beyond peaks attained by other cereals which turned downward early April—and explained it was due mainly to scarcity of the feed for immediate delivery.

Cotton Up And Down

After several months of narrow swings, wheat slumped 18 per cent from its April high to the end of June.

With industrial use of cotton establishing new high records, fibre quotations began moving up early in the year. From 13 cents a pound, cotton pushed beyond the 15 cents mark in a few months.

An accumulation cloth inventories in mill hands coincided with mounting estimates of the probable cotton harvest to send prices plunging 18 per cent by the close of the half year.

Livestock prices maintained a steadily rising trend. Even in recent months, when every other major commodity group weakened, The Associated Press weighted livestock index nudged ahead three per cent.

Despite the downtourn in some agricultural prices during recent months, grains and cotton remain above levels prevailing at the first of the year. Livestock stands 14 per cent ahead.

Cash From Uncle Sam

Government payments have added considerably to the agriculturalist's intake. The total reported by the department of agriculture for the first four months, the latest data available, was $282,000,000 against $53,000,000 in the same period last year.

The following table gives some idea of the increase in wholesale quotations of farm staples during the past year, and compared with the depression low point.

	June 1	Year Ago	Depr. Low
Wheat (bu)	$ 1.27 1/2	$ .96 7/8	$ .48 1/2
Cotton (pd)	.13.22	11.79	.059
Corn (bu)	1.17 1/4	.61 3/8	.24 1/2
Hogs (cwt)	11.75	10.20	3.60
Cattle (cwt)	15.00	8.75	6.30

Ceramic Factories Once Aided by Royal Patrons

In the early part of last century the arts were very much under the patronage of the rulers of the different countries in Europe. The ceramic factories in particular owed their success to the assistance given them by their royal patrons. This patronage sometimes meant real ownership, and distribution of the productions often went to favorites of the court at a severe loss to the factory. If in the end the cost was largely assumed by the taxpayers, they at least had a part in giving to posterity many of the lovely things which collectors possess today, according to a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

The art of making true porcelain such as was made in the Orient was not discovered in Europe until the beginning of the Eighteenth century. Many chemists had made experiments trying to solve this elusive substance but were not successful.

The marks of Dresden or Meissen porcelain are best known as the "crossed swords." The mark is usually under the glaze in blue. This mark was not used regularly until 1725, but became the exclusive mark after 1740. Now and then we find very beautiful cups and saucers with a yellow or ruby ground with panels of Watteau figures and bearing the mark "AR" in monogram. Such pieces are supposed to be of the earliest Meissen period, and made under the ownership of Augustus of Saxony. A piece marked with a cut across the hilt of the swords means it was sold in the white and decorated outside the factory.

RADIO SOUND EFFECTS

Here are a few ways of producing mechanical sounds:

For hitting a golf ball: snap fingers.

Rain: Slowly drop sand on tightly drawn cellophane.

For producing a fire: crackle cellophane at the mike.

Sound of crickets: run finger over small area of a fine-tooth comb.

Men walking in mud: slop some half-cooked spaghetti in your hands.

Sound of man walking in snow: squeeze a sealed box of cornstarch rhythmically.

'Water-Logged' Tires Solve Farm Problem

(By AP Feature Service)

Akron, Ohio—Farmer Jones will weigh down his tractor tires with a long drink from the garden hose if he takes the advice of a tire company here. The company says it solves the troublesome problem of how to keep the tires from bouncing and losing traction while operating on rough ground. The water is followed by the usual dose of air. An anti-freeze mixture is used in the winter.

Banana Cream Dessert

1/2 cup granulated sugar	1 teaspoon vanilla
1/3 cup flour	1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
2 cups milk	1/4 teaspoon almond extract
3 egg yolks, beaten	1 1/2 cups sliced bananas
1/4 teaspoon salt

Blend sugar and flour. Add milk, yolks and salt. Cook in double boiler until thick and creamy, stirring frequently. Allow to cool. Add rest of the ingredients and pour into the crust.

Crust

2 cups rolled unsweetened zwieback	1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/3 cup butter, melted	1 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix the ingredients. Reserve half a cup and pour rest into a buttered shallow glass baking dish. Add the filling and cover with meringue.

Meringue

3 egg whites
5 tablespoons granulated sugar	Reserved crumbs

Beat whites until stiff. Add sugar and beat until creamy. Roughly spread over filling and sprinkle with crumbs. Bake 10 minutes in slow oven. Cool. Chill and serve spread with whipped cream.

This dessert should be served the day it is made.

To remove berry and fruit stains from linens, stretch across a pan or bowl and pour boiling water from a teakettle held about four feet above the stain. Continue pouring until the stain disappears.

Several thousand Amazon flies have been liberated in Puerto Rico by entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture in the hope they will control the sugarcane borer there as they have in British Guiana. The original flies cost the British Government about $175 each, when in 1933 an expedition into the Amazon River jungles brought back about 200 adult flies at a total cost of $35,000. The fly deposits a small living maggot near the hole in the sugarcane stalk, made by the borer. This maggot searches out the borer, pierces its outer covering, and becomes an internal feeder on its body, soon killing it.

Local Death Record

Allison G. Mayes died Tuesday at his home in Pine Hill, aged 87 years. Funeral arrangements will be made later.

Funeral services will be held at the Kukuk Memorial Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenuefi on Friday at 2 p. m., with burial in St. Remy Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Mont St. Michel Tides Among World's Wonders

One of the fastest and strongest tides in the world ebbs and flows off Mont St. Michel in Brittany. With a deep moaning sound heard for miles, the tide flows, rushing back over the eight miles it has receded at ebb-tide and within a few minutes transforms about 100 square miles of ocean bed from a stretch of sand into turbulent sea.

The highest tides of the year occur before the spring and autumn equinoxes, when the Mont is entirely surrounded by water. At other times throughout the year at the new and full moon the tide also runs high, though not reaching the equinoctial records.

The granite islet of Mont St. Michel rises 250 feet. The quaint houses of the one-street village and the Gothic abbey and castle are surrounded by a medieval wall and towers.

In addition to the scenic lure of the Mont, there is the attraction of omelettes Poulard, cooked by a special method in a long-handled iron frying pan over an open fire, and Pre'Sale, which is the local variety of lamb, raised on the salt marshes. And besides these regional delicacies there is an abundance of sea food lobsters and fish.

Horses galloping: beat your chest with your palms in the rhythm of a horse's gallop.

For the effect of a terrific duel with swords: clink a knife and fork together at mike.

Loyalists Push New Offensive

By The Associated Press.)

Spanish government armies pushed a new offensive intended to break the long siege of Madrid today, striking heavily at the insurgent left flank west of the capital.

Troops under General Jose Miaja, commander of Madrid's government defenders, reported seizure of Villanueva Dee La Canada, about three miles north of Brunete, due west of Madrid.

Government observers informed Valencia, temporary seat of the republican government, that fierce forces of insurgents and Moorish allies were massing on the Teruel front, northwest of Valencia.

In northern Spain, insurgent headquarters announced cessation of the drive on Santander, 65 miles west of Bilbao, and the shifting of thousands of troops to a point to the southwest in an attempt to cut off government forces from Asturias province.

Separation of the Asturias and Santander provinces would clear the way for insurgents to circle Santander and trap its defenders.

In London, official spokesmen said they attached no "undue importance" to a demand from insurgent General Francisco Franco that he be accorded belligerent rights. Some feared the demand, threatening a bar to Spanish markets in the event of refusal, might imperil a compromise on Spanish non-intervention.

"Steel by Friday" Is Republic Slogan

nets as Lee Pressman, general counsel for CIO steel strikers, charged that "a state of brutal terrorism" prevails on the Ohio strike front.

"New steel by Friday," predicted Republic plant officials.

Smoke streamed from towering stacks of three Republic units after the last of a series of back-to-work thrusts in defiance of John L. Lewis' cohorts in the steel industry.

Republic claimed 3,087 out of 5,000 normally employed steel workers responded yesterday at the reopening of the Corrigan-McKinney plant, Upson Nut & Bolt Division and the Truscon works. Republic Steel & Tubes, Inc., is scheduled to reopen tomorrow.

Pickets Limited

Pickets were limited to 12 at each plant gate. Nearly 1,000 troops were here to preserve order.

"This is the beginning of the end of John L. Lewis," said H. G. Ellison, Upson superintendent. "They'll never get these men out on strike again."

To which B. J. Damich, field director of the CIO-affiliated steel workers' organizing committee, replied:

"The attempt to reopen Republic was a complete failure. When the public realizes only the foremen and bosses are in the plants, it will insist that the military be withdrawn."

Pressmen, at Canton, O., asserted in a formal statement that the Ohio National Guard "has made itself a veritable army of occupation" in the Ohio sector of the seven-state strike, launched May 26 for signed bargaining contracts.

"Men, women and children have been beaten, homes raided and searched," declared Pressman. Picket lines are raided daily and attempts made to coerce the men into going back to work."

The attorney said he based his assertions upon a two-day investigation conducted at Canton by Joseph Kovner, another CIO lawyer, in which "over 100 persons were interviewed."

"While Governor (Martin L.) Davey continues to support such conduct on the part of the Ohio National Guard," Pressman said, "We intend to hold every officer and Guardsman responsible for these violently lawless acts."

The situation was apparently in stalemate at Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company's Indiana Harbor, Ind., plant. J. C. Argetsinger, company vice-president and general manager, emerged from a four-hour conference with Gov. M. Clifford Townsend at Indianapolis and said: "Our position is unchanged."

Schools were established in Alaska by Russian settlers in 1784—before the constitution of the United States was adopted.

Forward Pass Father Dies

Annapolis, Md., July 7 (AP).—The "father" of football's forward pass—Capt. Paul N. Dashiell, U. S. N., retired—is dead. The former player, professor, coach, umpire and rules committee chairman, died yesterday of a heart attack at the Navy Hospital, where he was undergoing eye treatments. He was nearly 70. Captain Dashiell won the cognomen, "Father of the Forward Pass," in 1905, when he suggested the revolutionary play to open up the game.

Will Seek Compromise

Birmingham, Ala., July 7 (AP)—Forces interested in ending the "Scottsboro" case will continue to seek a compromise settlement, despite scheduling of new trials next week, an informed source disclosed today. Nine negroes are charged in the case with attacks on two white women aboard a freight train near Scottsboro, Ala., six years ago.

Expropriation Halted

Puebla, Mexico, July 7 (AP).—General Maximino Avila Camacho, governor of Puebla State, announced today President Lazaro Cardenas had at least temporarily halted expropriation of the rich sugar plantation and mills of former United States Consul William O. Jenkins. The property was to have been distributed to peasants and factory workers.

Designer Rondout Creek Bridge Dead

Daniel Edward Moran, 73, who with Ralph Modjeska, in 1923, designed the Mid-Hudson bridge after a plan by Major General George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, had been rejected, died in Mendham, N. J., Saturday after a short illness.

Mr. Moran, who was described as probably the best known foundation expert in the country by former Governor Alfred E. Smith, was the consulting engineer in the construction of many of the largest bridges in the world. He was an adviser in the building of the George Washington, Triborough, Golden Gate and many other bridges as well as a consultant in many skyscraper building jobs in New York city.

About the same time he designed the Mid-Hudson bridge, Mr. Moran went into partnership with Mr. Modjeska to construct the Philadelphia-Camden bridge, at that time the longest suspension bridge in the world. About the same time Mr. Moran received the contract for designing and supervising the construction of the highway bridge across Rondout creek, Kingston.

Mr. Moran was a consulting engineer for the New York World's Fair in 1939 and had been working on plans for the construction of foundations of fair buildings on the Flushing meadows at the time of his death.

The $77,600,000 San Francisco-Oakland bridge, greatest in the world, from point of view of cost, length, eight and a half miles, and steel and concrete consumption, was made possible when Mr. Moran conceived the idea of breaking the difficult two-mile jump from San Francisco to Yerba Buena, into two "lakes."

Born in Orange, N. J., April 2, 1864, Mr. Moran was the son of Daniel and Annie E. Blake Moran. He was graduated as a civil engineer from the School of Mines at Columbia University in 1884 and received the degree of Master of Science in 1911. His wife, Sarah V. Kelly, whom he married in 1896, and three sons, Daniel E. Moran, Jr., Archibald A. Moran, Hugh B. Moran, and two daughters, Mrs. George C. Fraser and Mrs. Carl Bricken, survive.

Balance of Power

Dublin, Irish Free State, July 7 (AP)—The Labor party with 13 seats in the Dail, held the balance of power in the Irish Free State today and presented President Eamon De Valera with two problems arising from the "deadheat" parliamentary elections. The New York-born president had to decide whether he would sacrifice parts of his draft constitution in exchange for a working majority with the labor deputies or whether he would sacrifice the support they usually gave him on other matters.

and solidly packed * * *to such an extent that legislation to protect the farmer and workingman was doomed almost before it was passed."

"A majority of the aged justices who compose the court were intent upon thwarting the major purposes of the Roosevelt administration," he continued. "As a result, the people, the President, and Congress were powerless to act.

Since the President proposed his reorganization program five months ago, he said, the court "decided to yield as the safest way out" and reversed a number of its earlier decisions.

"When the highest tribunal in the land sees fit to overthrow its own decisions," he declared, "the evidence is convincing that those decisions were indefensible both in law and in common sense."

Before the second day of hard-hitting debate began, statements of support for the substitute court bill gave advocates of the measure the edge among publicly committed members for the first time.

This lineup resulted:

38 senators openly favor the bill.

37 publicly oppose it.

21 still are non-committal.

Administration Cheered

The two acquisitions, bringing to five the number of converts since a compromise proposal was offered last week, heartened administration chieftains.

They asserted they had sufficient votes to pass the newly substituted bill. Taking the offensive, they called the Senate into session at 10 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) instead of the customary noon.

The early convening time allowed three hours of debate before recessing for the all-star baseball game in the afternoon. Sessions will be held as regularly as possible, leaders said, to prevent any dilatory tactics.

Opponents, who have talked openly of filibustering if they did not round up sufficient votes to defeat the bill, said they were content to let the administration forces talk as long as they desire.

They pointed out that the longer the friends of the bill speak, the longer the showdown will be delayed.

Opposition leaders expressed surprise at the vigor with which Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, and other spokesmen for the bill opened the fight in the Senate yesterday. The foes had expected the burden of carrying on the debate would be turned over to them almost from the start.

Instead, the heavy-set Robinson, mentioned as a possible nominee to the Supreme Court, advanced one argument after another for adopting the substitute bill. It would authorize appointment of additional Supreme Court justices at the rate of one a year for every member over 75 who remains on the bench.

The original Roosevelt bill, abandoned by administration forces, would have permitted appointment at once of an additional justice for every member over 70.

The substitute provides that the court shall return to nine justices when the older members retire or die.

SERGEANT HOPKINS WINS ROOSEVELT PRAISE

Sergeant John Hopkins, of Ellenville, in charge of general traffic arrangements on 9-W at the time of President Roosevelt's visit to Mt. Marion Monday, received high praise from both President and Mrs. Roosevelt for the way he and the other members of the State Police detailed for traffic duty that day had handled the job.

When the President and his party arrived at the bridge circle near Highland on the return home President Roosevelt called Sergeant Hopkins to his car and complimented him on his fine work. Mrs. Roosevelt added, "Frank, I think these boys have done a wonderful job." Sergeant Hulse, of Highland, who had charge of arrangements on that end of the route, was with Sergeant Hopkins when Presidential approval was given to the work of the troopers.

The President's party had a clear road on their trip from Mt Marion to Highland. Chief of Police J. Allan Wood and members of the Kingston police department cooperating to give a clear route through the city.

About 10 minutes before the President and his party left Mt Marion Sergeant Hopkins sent word to have southbound traffic on 9-W stopped at Lake Katrine and northbound traffic halted at the bridge circle at Highland and as a result 9-W was cleared of traffic, but two lone cars being passed along the route.

Will Ask for $50,000

Washington, July 7 (AP)—Members of the Senate civil liberties committee disclosed today they soon will ask for $50,000 to continue their investigation of strike-breaking, labor espionage, and illegal interference with collective bargaining. Senator Thomas (D., Utah) said the committee's recent inquiry into the Memorial Day battle between steel strikers and Chicago police virtually had exhausted its funds.

Fight for New York Mayoralty Looms, G.O.P. for Fiorello

New York, July 7 (AP).—A fight for the New York mayoralty between United States Senator Robert F. Wagner and Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, approached a step nearer reality today with the solidifying of Republican sentiment here behind the incumbent.

A month ago it was considered doubtful whether LaGuardia, the Fusion mayor originally nominated by the Republicans in an anti-Tammany fight, would be renominated this time by the Republicans. Even the New York county Republican leader spoke against him.

But recent talk of "drafting" Senator Wagner as the Tammany candidate has been followed by a change in the stand of some Republican leaders, and some of the leading Republicans are planning a formal call upon the mayor tomorrow at his summer city hall at College Point.

The delegation will ask LaGuardia if he will accept the Republican nomination and it is disclosing no secret to say the answer will be yes. Among those said to be on the committee are Thomas D. Thacher, who was head of the city charter commission, Charles H. Tuttle, former United States attorney and candidate for governor, and George Z. Medalie, former United States attorney, who recently joined with Charles E. Hughes, Jr., in advocating the mayor's re-election.

Tomorrow's visit to the mayor is timed to coincide with the expected announcement of the five county Democratic leaders of the city of the name of the Democratic candidate for the mayoralty election next fall.

The five leaders met a week ago and are reported to have agreed upon Senator Wagner as the candidate, providing the Senator would agree.

Since that time, President Roosevelt is understood to have expressed to Wagner the sentiment that he would not object to the Senator becoming the Democratic candidate for the New York mayoralty.

Since that time, too, Wagner made his Fourth of July speech in which he described Tammany as the cradle of liberalism and social welfare legislation.

Today around Tammany Hall those who work there believe Wagner will finally say "yes" to the five leaders some time today, and that his candidacy will be announced tomorrow.

Jamboree Scouts Do Guard Duty

Washington, D. C., July 7.—Monday morning the Scouts of Troop 25 drew lots to see who would go to Arlington where services were held at the tomb of the unknown soldier. Seven scouts were chosen and R. Fuller accompanied them to the tomb; the mud was ankle deep. Another group went to the Smithsonian Institute.

Monday afternoon the Wolf Patrol, which consists of Kingston boys, went to the Museum of Natural History.

Fourth of July was celebrated Monday night in Washington. The Scouts walked to the Washington monument where they saw fireworks.

The next morning, July 6, the Scouts got up early because they were on guard duty.

Every troop has to take a turn guarding the camp and provide orderlies. The service troop has to direct car traffic, check Scout passes and patrol the streets in camp. Orderlies are used in the kitchen, quartermasters' tent and the post office. Troop 25 was relieved at noon.

Sunday afternoon the scouts of Troop 25 in Washington, D. C., decided by voting to eat supper at 10 p. m. after the convocation. Before going to the convocation scouts in groups of eight visited the following places: The Smithsonian Institute, Texas delegation, Haines Point, airport and the airport swimming pool

At 6:30 the scouts of Troop 25 met at the head of reflecting pool and marched into the arena. The Grand National Convocation, part of which was heard over the radio, consisted of many speeches.

After eating supper the scouts went to bed.

Monday morning everyone was digging ditches to drain off the water which came down during the night. The mud was ankle deep. After these chores were finished a group of scouts went to the Smithsonian Institute, a very popular place.

Practically every scout will have an opportunity to see what he wants to see in Washington.

Oldest Catholic Settlement

According to "Famous First Facts," the first Catholic church settlement was formed at St. Augustine, Florida, in 1565, though Mass was said as early as 1524 in Manhattan island for Verazzano and probably earlier services were held by the explorers from Greenland. Figures on church membership in the Catholic Almanac indicate highest percentage of Catholics to church members in New Mexico, lowest in North Carolina.

Home Leaders Shade Berardis 4-3; Mirable-Smith Bout Friday

Need One More Win To Take First Leg On Freeman Trophy

Three-run Error Spoils Charley Bock's Fine Pitching Performance—Toddy Uhl Stars on Hill.

There have been three-base errors and all sorts of errors committed in the City League, but it is doubtful whether the fans ever saw a three-run error up until Tuesday night's game at the Athletic Field. "Spot" Cullen was guilty of the misplay and the three markers were just enough to enable Grunenwald's Home Leaders to edge out Berardi A. C. by a score of 4 to 3.

The Home Leaders, by winning, added a half game to their lead and now need but one more victory to clinch the first half of the race for the Freeman trophy.

With the defeat came the elimination of Berardis because of the fact that the league-leading Home Leaders and runners-up—Hedricks—have out two games left to play and they battle each other in both contests. Hedricks can cop the honors by winning both.

Charley Bock, Berardis' ace hurler, was the victim of not only Cullen's muff, but of another by Jack Schatzel, which gave the Bakers their winning margin. Bock was nicked for five hits and issued four passes.

Toddy Uhl opposed Bock and although he was touched for two more hits than his opponent he protected an early lead by doing his best work in the clutch. He added eight more strikeouts to his long list.

Berardis scored first, the run coming in the second inning. Bock lined a single over second base and advanced to second on Zadany's sacrifice. He reached third on a passed ball and registered when Hopper hit a hot one at Minasian's glove, which was good for two bases.

The fatal muff came in the Home Leaders' half of the frame. Purvis drew a walk to start and Sidzik singled over third base. Uhl advanced both runners a base and Van Deusen was walked to fill the sacks. Flanagan flied to Van Derzee and it looked as if Bock would escape unscathed. Then Minasian hoisted a high one to right field and Cullen obliged by dropping it and the three runners raced home.

Berardis came within one run of tying the score in the fourth. Hopper received a walk and took second when Uhl made a wild pitch. J. Berardi drove a hot one between first and second and Sidzik made a good stop but fumbled in doing so and Hopper raced home.

The Home Leaders also scored in their half of the fourth. Kelly led with a single and Flanagan repeated. Minasian was walked to load the sacks. Hanley hit to Bock and forced Kelly at home. In an attempt to double Hanley at first Schatzel let Zadany's throw get away from him and Flanagan crossed the plate.

Berardis threw a scare into the Home Leaders' camp in the last inning but fell short one run of tying. DeCicco beat out an infield hit after Berardi had fanned. Cullen tried to catch him napping at first and uncorked a wild heave, allowing DeCicco to reach second when Van Derzee popped to Dubin but Schatzel doubled to right field to score DeCicco. He was stranded when Bock struck out.

Bock retired the side by way of the strikeout route in the third and made it four in a row by fanning the first man in the fourth.

Neither the Kendall oil nor Bob Peters's $5 were in danger as at no time was there the least semblance of a homer.

Hedricks meet Home Leaders tonight.

Dizzy Against Goofy in All-Star Classic Today

Washington, July 7 (AP).—It's Dizzy against Goofy on the firing line today in baseball's fifth all-star classic.

Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean, No. 1 right-hander of the National League, was paired in an opening pitcher's duel with Vernon (Goofy) Gomez, the American League's hottest southpaw, winner of two all-star conflicts.

Dizzy was the victor a year ago in the senior loop's only triumph of the midsummer feature.

The contest had all the aspects of a world series.

Bill Terry's Nationals, buoyed by their success last season, assembled the most powerful array ever to represent their league.

The Americans, with "clean-up" hitters sprinkled through their batting order, were confident their big sticks would solve the puzzling deliveries of Dean, Carl Hubbell of the Giants and possibly Van Lingle Mungo of the Dodgers.

A sell-out crowd of about 32,000 in Griffith Stadium expected to see President Roosevelt, first chief executive to attend an all-star contest, toss out the first ball.

While the crowd couldn't match Cleveland's record turnout of more than 69,000 two years ago, it probably was the most notable ever to attend. The House of Representatives adjourned for the day, and the Senate planned to cut short its business.

The spectators were particularly eager to see if Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees, the "goat" of last year's game as a rookie performer, would redeem himself in his sophomore opportunity.

Terry decided to hold his own southpaw, Carl Hubbell, for a later duty and shoot Dean to get the jump on the Americans.

Terry probably will use either Mungo or Cincinnati's Lee Grissom to mop up, although he also has Cy Blanton of the Pirates and Bucky Walters of the Phillies.

Terry's infield has Johnny Mize of the Cardinals at first, Billy Herman of the Cubs at second, Dick Bartell of the Giants at shortstop, and Arky Vaughan of the Pirates at third. Frank Demaree of the Cubs, Joe Medwick of the Cardinals and Paul Waner of the Pirates formed the outfield, with Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs catching.

Skipper McCarthy countered with an inner group of Lou Gehrig and Red Rolfe of the Yankees at first and third, respectively; Charles Gehringer of the Tigers at second, with Buddy Myer of the Senators in reserve, and Joe Cronin of the Red Sox at shortstop.

The outer force consisted of DiMaggio, Roy Bell of the Browns and Earl Averill of the Indians. Big Bill Dickey of the Yankees was behind the bat.

McCarthy indicated he would send Tommy Bridges of the Tigers and Mel Harder of the Indians, both right-handers, to follow Gomez. If Goofy's portside slants prove particularly effective, Joe may give the second pitching assignment to veteran Bob Grove of the Red Sox.

Johnny Murphy, Yankee right-hander, was chosen last night to replace Chicago's Monty Stratton, who has an injured wrist. Clydell Castleman, Giant right hand tosser, was called for use if Mungo's sore back still troubles him.

Another Victory For Tommy Zano

Giving Johnny McCray, former amateur welterweight champion of Jersey City, a second chance to avenge a former defeat, Tommy Zano, Kingston's professional boxer, hung up another victory Tuesday night at Braddock Bowl in Jersey.

The win was Zano's third since he quit the amateur ranks to fight for purses under the direction of Charles Roosa, local taxi operator, who is interested in the sport for diversion.

"Tommy surely looked good" said Roosa in reporting the victory. "McCray is a nice boxer, but he couldn't stand Tommy's rushes and dropped the decision, the second in a row to our boy."

Zano weighed 142, McCray, 145.

No Hit, No Run Game.

Ben Toffel on the mound for the Appleknockers Tuesday evening pitched a no hit, no run game against Kinneys. Only one man on the losing team reached first base during the entire contest. Cooper, lead off man, in the initial inning, reached first base on an error, but was soon off the base when a fast double play was made. The final score was 6 to 0.

Vince Smedes made a diving catch to snare Cooper's drive in the seventh with two out to save the no hit game. Brooks and Debosky each made nice catches to stop probable base hits.

Toffel struck out six and received good support to chalk up his third straight shut out as well as 25 straight scoreless innings. Toffel also holds local strikeout record of 15 in one game set a year ago.

The contest last night is said to be the first no hit no run game in local softball history and probably in the Hudson Valley.

Knitting Mills Win

Tuesday evening at Block Park the Kingston Knitting Mills defeated the Trinity M. E. Church team, 6-2, behind Ernest DeCicco's seven-strikeout pitching in a seven inning game. Tonight the Knitting Mills will play the Valencia Grill team at 6:30 o'clock at Cordts' Field.

Klein Comes Back —By Pap

In the early weeks of the present season Chuck Klein warmed the Phillies' bench, except for occasional pinch-hitting. It was not until the latter part of May that he returned to his old outfield berth. And when he did, he went right to work on opposing pitchers.

He boosted his batting average until he was in the first five of the National League. He got his daily hit and more often than not it was two or three.

The strange part of Klein's latest batting spree is that he did his most effective hitting on the road whereas in the past he had been rated strictly a Baker Bowl buster. The short outfield fences in the Phillies' home park are made to order for Klein's pulled shots.

The slugger joined the Philadelphia club way back in 1928, from Fort Wayne. He earned the most valuable player award for his work during 1932 when he lead the National League in runs, hits and stolen bases. He stepped out and won the individual batting championship in 1933 and, the following November, was traded to the Chicago Cubs in exchange for Roemig, Kleinhans, Hendricks and $65,000 in cash.

He failed to live up to his reputation with the Cubs, hitting only .301 in 1934. In 1935 he fell off to .293. The Cubs gave up last season and in May traded him back to the Phillies for Kowalik, Allen and Curt Davis.

Klein resumed his old ways. He had a real field day in Forbes Field at the expense of Pirate hurlers when he poled out four homers, the fourth one the series winning a close game for the Phillies. It was all the more impressive because Forbes Field never was one of his favorite homer-hitting parks. In 1935, with the Cubs, Klein hit at least one homer in every other park in the league but could not find the range of the Pirate fences.

Chuck is in his 10th season in the National League. He is no youngster—he'll be celebrating his 32nd birthday in October—but he still rates a dangerous slugger and a capable fielder.

Colonials Will Play Bradleys Of Springfield

The Kingston Colonials invade Massachusetts Sunday to meet the powerful Bradleys of Springfield, one of the finest semi-pro clubs in the New England district. The Bradleys are rated next to the Savitt-Gems of Hartford in that section and to date have won 16 games and lost 2.

Fresh from their 11 to 4 triumph over the Canadian Clowns, the Colonials are geared for a severe test against the Bradleys. Joe Brown, young speedball artist, who has been pitching sensational ball, is expected to start for the Colonials with King Kong Shackett and Leo Komosa in reserve.

The Colonials now have a record of 7 victories and 5 defeats against some of the best semi-pro clubs. Timely hitting behind Brown's brilliant pitching has been responsible for one-sided victories over Margaretville and the Canadian Clowns in the two most recent starts.

The Bradleys, who have beaten the Mohawk Giants, Albany Black Sox, Cuban Stars and others, are scheduled for an appearance at the Pan-Am diamond on Sunday, August 22.

A workout is listed for the local tossers Thursday evening at the Pan-Am field at 6:30.

BIRD HAZARD DECLARED MENACE IN AUTO RACING.

New York (AP).—Birds can be as much of a menace to the safety of auto race drivers as they are to airplane pilots.

Ernst Delius, German driver who came to this country for the George Vanderbilt Cup competition on Long Island's Roosevelt raceway, tells of the bird he ran into while running 130 miles per hour recently at Adenau. Blinded momentarily as the force of striking a mountain thrush broke his goggles, he smashed his car into a wall and it overturned.

He escaped with a badly injured knee.

Golfer Bags a Jackrabbit.

North Platte, Neb. (AP).—Some golfers get birdies now and then, but Arnold Stumbaugh is thinking about making a specialty of jackrabbits. Stumbaugh, driving toward the green as one member of a foursome, scared a jackrabbit out of the rough. The ball skimmed along the ground, and struck the rabbit as it was crossing the fairway. Stumbaugh didn't make the green, but the rabbit was a goner.

Add success stories for 1937—the rise of the Chicago Cubs.

When the season started the Cubs could have stepped into the first chapter of an Alger book—just a bunch of honest hearts and willing hands. The applause went to the rich bullies in St. Louis, the genteel Giants and the roistering Pirates.

But what a difference a few months make. Today finds the Cubs in front as baseball attention swings to Washington and the all-star game and the players not in the game enjoy a three-day holiday. American League games scheduled yesterday between the Yanks and Red Sox and the A's and Senators were moved back.

Since June 5 the Cubs have been hot. They have won 19 out of 27 games and have been especially effective against those bad boys from St. Louis. Monday they made it nine straight against the Gas Housers with two victories over them. Previously the Cubs had won three out of four from Pittsburgh and three straight from the Cards. In those nine games they made 129 hits, scored 80 runs. The Cards have not beaten them since April 25.

Like every Alger hero, the Cubs had to overcome adversity to be at the top on baseball's traditional inventory day, July 4. Early in the season injuries and illness deprived them of the services of nine players, most of them pitchers.

Charlie Grimm's men found a remedy—they started to hit. They are still hitting. The latest averages credit Gabby Hartnett with .356, Billy Herman with .365, Bill Jurges with .363, and Frank Demaree with .349.

When the Cub pitching staff folded during the club's hospital era, the boys started to write the team's obituaries. A couple of guys named Henry Clairborne Bryant and Clyde Mitchel Shoun staved off disaster. Bryant has won 6 and lost 1, Shoun's figures are 6 and 2. Now the remainder of what is probably the best rounded pitching staff in the league, Larry French, Tex Carleton, Bill Lee, Curt Davis, and Tarzan Parmelee, is back ready for steady work. The venerable Charlie Root has won eight games and has proved invaluable as a relief hurler.

The Cubs are vulnerable. They are not insensitive to the bright lights of road trips and over confidence. But right now they are head men, and, as Messrs. Terry, Frisch, Traynor et al will tell you, very much the team to beat.

M. I. T. Gymnasts Win.

Boston (AP).—Gymnasts from M. I. T. won five of the seven New England Association championships, the other two going to Springfield (Mass.) College.

White-Headed Vultures Reach Age of 118 Years

Dr. A. D. Peacock, Professor of Natural History, Dundee university, in writing on the ages of animals and birds, says:

The potential longevity of the toad and frog may reach 36 and 12 to 16 years, respectively. A Japanese salamander has lived 40 years in the zoo.

Exact European records show 40 years for captive alligators. Experienced students believe that no great ages are attained in lizards and snakes.

For birds the figures tabulated are not exact in all cases, nor average, but as they relate to actual observations a certain value attaches to them. The figure represent years.

Terms Used by Birdmen

Dog fanciers have nothing on bird students when it comes to strange sounding words of description. Most of the terms used by ornithologists are absolutely necessary in writing bird descriptions. For example, says a writer in the Washington Post, birdmen refer to the feathers covering the base of the quills on the wings and tail as coverts. The quill feathers of the wing are primaries. Thus, primary coverts are the conspicuous feathers at the base of the primaries. Secondaries are merely the flight feathers of the wing. Tertiaries are those secondaries closest to the body. Shoulder feathers are scapulars. The regions about the ears are auriculars. Dorsal refers to the back; frontal to the forehead, and crown to the top of the head. The bend of the wing is the carpal joint, the occiput, the back of the head; the nape, the back of the neck.

International Champ And Albanian Mix It In Return Skirmish

New Yorker Blames Carelessness for Loss to Mirable—Frankie Out for Second Victory.

The return bout between Frankie Mirable and Willie Smith will go on at the Municipal Auditorium, Friday night, and one of the largest turnouts of fight fans ever seen at the Broadway arena is expected to be on hand.

Approximately 1,500 saw the two slash it out in their first appearance here on June 25, and went wild when Mirable, pride of Albany, knocked out the International champion in the fourth round.

Up until that heat the little New York negro was way out in front, having floored the king of Adirondack A. A. U. lightweights twice, but a hard right cross stiffened the negro.

Ringsiders insist that the dynamic blow sent home by Mirable was a lucky punch, but Frankie says it was not. "I found that opening and aimed for the button." Mirable told members of the Mayor's Industrial Committee in the dressing room. "The punch carried more steam than I usually put on my wallops, though, and I have a new idea how to throw them now."

Smith, the only American boxer to score a knockout over a member of the Italian team at the Yankee Stadium last month, was deeply upset at losing, and asked for another shot at Mirable. "I think I got a little careless, but I won't the next time," said Smith.

A goodly number of the so-called fight experts are inclined to believe that Willie did open up too much, and opine that Friday night the story will be different. Of course, it is not to be forgotten that Frankie Mirable is a seasoned fighter, too, and that his bout with Smith went down on his record as the 110th of his career.

The Albany champ is a tough and rugged little battler. Smith outpunched him in the three rounds they fought, but he survived the lacing, which included two knockdowns, to crash through with that dynamic wallop that put Smith to sleep.

Mirable was floored for a count of nine in the second round and again for nine in the third. His gameness and staying qualities helped to make the scrap one of the most sensational ever seen at the auditorium, and his eagerness to repeat augurs another such battle Friday night when he fights it out again with Smith.

Six other slashing scraps will support the main bill, featuring Johnny Bilecki against Eddie Suggs, another New Yorker from the same gymnasium as Smith; Phil Elaqua of Albany against Danny Cox, the boy who knocked out Joe Triola, and Buddy Emerson, the St. Remy kayo puncher against Johnny Rosadoski of New York. These are all five rounders.

Rosadoski, the rugged Polish belter from New York, is expected to give Emerson the toughest opposition he has had to date.

The three rounders will show Davy Hoppe, Sammy Offerman's coming champ, of Kingston, against Danny Williams, Hudson wildcat, Johnny Castor, the pride of Highland, opposing Billy Pelez, Albany rubber man, and Eddie Van Alstine of Ravena against Eddie Brown of Hudson.

Reserved seats are in great demand and a complete sell out is looked for. Those desiring good ones are advised to place their orders early with Dick Williams at the municipal auditorium.

ANOTHER OWENS IS COMING ALONG.

Lancaster, Pa. (AP).—Norwood (Barney) Ewell, hailed as as the "Jesse Owens of Lancaster High School," won every track and field event he entered in the 1937 season—the 100- and 220-yard dashes and the broad-jump—and set records in many. He was beaten only once in 1935 and once last year.

Lancaster's "Flying Ebony" has been clocked in 9.6 for the 100, 21.4 in the 220 and 26.4 in the 220 low hurdles.

He will be graduated from high school next February.

Riggs Stephenson, Birmingham Barons manager, was considered one of the best fullbacks in the south during his college days at Alabama.

St. James Scouts Climb Wittenberg On Overnight Hike

The Boy Scouts of Troop No. 11, St. James M. E. Church, had a memorable trip over the week-end, on their first annual hike, which had the top of Wittenberg Mountain as its destination.

The party, made up of 14 scouts, in charge of Scoutmaster Edgar Freese and S. Max Taylor, outdoor man of the troop committee, left Kingston about 9 o'clock Sunday morning. They went to Woodland Valley and thence about half way up Wittenberg, where they made camp for the night in a lean-to. Monday morning they continued the trip to the top of the mountain, which rises to a height of 3,800 feet.

Scoutmaster Freese reports that the scouts made the climb in good shape, although they found the last mile and a quarter plenty stiff enough going.

Outstanding incidents of the trip was the visit from some too friendly porcupines during their overnight camp and the fact that Scout Eddie Yeager ate but one meal during the entire hike. Eddie's feat does not appear quite so remarkable, however, when it is stated that his one meal was a continuous one.

First use of wireless telegraphy to report a major steamship disaster was when the liners Republic and Florida collided in 1909

Campfire Held at Camp Preumaker

Camp Preumaker, Glenerie, July 7.—Introductions were the order of the day at Camp Preumaker yesterday as the traditional evening campfire ushered in the 1937 season. Campers revealed their identities, and it was discovered that the roster includes names not only from Kingston, but Saugerties, New Paltz, Wallkill, New York city and a number of places on Long Island.

Featured on the first campfire, under the direction of Francis Phillips, assistant camp director, was Arthur Terrance, a full blooded Indian from the Onondaga Reservation at Syracuse. Terrance provided the first campfire story of the season, an Indian legend. He will have charge of all Indian lore at the camp.

The camp has been divided up into five cabin groups, which will be the basis of intra-camp competition of various types. The roster of the camp for the first week includes:

Cabin 1: G. Warren Klas, coach of Kingston High School and athletic and waterfront director at the camp, leader; Harry Flowers, assistant, Donald Shader, Ray Dugan, Joseph Crantz, Francis Crantz, Alfred Wolven, Francis Bunce.

Cabin 2: Francis Phillips, Springfield College, assistant camp director, leader; Fred Lowe, Harry Kaprellian, Thomas Garfe, Grant Rowland, Hugh O'Neill, James Gemmell, Sidney Wolven.

Cabin 3: Harry Gumaer, Albany State College, assistant program director; William Kaufman, John Kaufman, John F. Malone, John R. Shults, Myron Brookfield, Paul Trantwein, Warren Hauck, Robert Russell, Teddy Overbaugh.

Cabin 4 Alva Bruce, assistant waterfront director, leader; Robert Van Valkenburgh, assistant; Edward Leudke, Ted Wood, John Pogmore, Kenneth Snyder, John Rowland, Harold Watrous.

Cabin 5: Roger Salzman, crafts director, leader; William Grothkopp, assistant; Herbert Spahn, Henry Schantz, Russell Bishop, John Lynker, Sonny Fator, Sam Fator, Robert Schwenk.

The camp staff is headed by Charles Henke, physical director of the Kingston Y. M. C. A. Other members of his staff include: Mrs. Chester Buley, chef; Jacob Myers, assistant chef; Mrs. Henke, registered nurse

Ten of the boys at camp this week are there under the sponsorship of the Kingston Kiwanis Club, which has sent various boys to camp for several years. Club members will visit the boys some time this week. The Kiwanis campers are: Don Shader, Ray Dugan, Joseph Crantz, Francis Crantz, Alfred Wolven, Francis Bunce, Fred Lowe, James Gemmell, Sidney Wolven, and Fred Storms.

Visiting days at the camp are Saturdays and Sundays after 3. The camp program is so arranged that the directors urge parents and friends to limit their visits to these periods.

Search for Earhart South of Howland

157-337. We are now running north and south."

From this message, caught by the portable direction finder, the Itasca's officer figured the plane may be sought southeast of Howland, since search of the corresponding area to the north was fruitless.

Coordination of the search meant that the Itasca, Colorado, Lexington, three destroyers and the mine sweeper Swan would be under one command.

Putnam again took up vigil in the San Francisco Coast Guard radio headquarters last night as operators sought to contact the mysterious sender of distress signals purportedly from the Earhart plane.

Since Monday night, the air has been clear of the unexplained "squeal" and voices, which Monday sent the Itasca on a vain dash to a position 281 miles north of Howland.

Paul Mantz, technical adviser to Miss Earhart, reiterated belief the plane could float "indefinitely."

Motion Dismissed

Washington, July 7 (AP)—The German-American mixed claims commission by unanimous agreement dismissed today a motion of the United States for an award of $22,000,000 to claimants who suffered losses in war time fires and explosions, including the disasters at Black Tom and Kingsland, N. J.

Brown's Appeal Notice Filed Today by Defense Counsel

Assemblyman J. Edward Conway and Robert G. Groves, defense counsel, this morning filed notice of an appeal in the Charles James Brown murder case. Notice was served on both District Attorney Cleon B. Murray and County Clerk James Simpson.

The apeal is from a judgment of conviction in County Court before County Judge Frederick G. Traver, who pronounced the death penalty, following a conviction of murder, first degree, by a jury.

Brown, negro handyman and truckman of Ellenville, was convicted of the slaying of Isadore Handleman at his Pine street home in Ellenville on the night of April 8. There is also an indictment pending against Brown for the killing of Mrs. Handleman but the first indictment moved for trial was that charging Brown with the death of Mr. Handleman.

The appeal which has been filed will stay the execution which by decree of the county court would have taken place some time during the first week of August. When notice of the appeal is filed the District Attorney serves notice on the warden of Sing Sing prison, where Brown is being held in the death house, that an appeal has been taken to the Appellate Division and this automatically stays the execution pending the outcome of the appeal.

Charles James Brown, born in the south, was sought for a week by police and State Troopers before he gave himself up at the Orange County Home, near Goshen, after hiding in the woods for four days without food or shelter. He was indicted the following month and in June was tried and found guilty of murder, first degree, as charged and sentenced to pay the death penalty.

It was charged that Brown seeking money went to the house occupied by the Handleman family shortly after mid-night and armed with a piece of pinion gear attacked Mr. Handleman, a man over 70 years of age, when Handleman awoke and found Brown in the room. Mrs. Handleman went to the rescue of her husband and it is charged was also struck and killed. In a search for money in the bed it is alleged Brown set fire to the bedding with matches and then left the house. The charred bodies of the two people, burned almost beyond recognition, were found when firemen had extinguished the flames.

It was first supposed that the fire was accidental and that Mr. Handleman might have set fire to the room while smoking but discovery of a pinion gear covered with blood in the McDole yard only a short distance from the Handleman house led to the murder theory.

Ellenville police, state troopers, Sheriff Molyneaux and others under the direction of District Attorney Cleon B. Murray began a search for Brown and his movements were traced through Port Jervis, Middletown and Goshen. He gave himself up on April 15 at the Orange Farms and was charged with double murder. At the time he confessed to the crime and asked for a speedy disposition and told the officials that he desired the electric chair "to get it over with."

Later on trial he denied his guilt and said his statements had been given while in fear of injury at the hands of an angry mob in the streets of Ellenville when he was returned to Ellenville for arraignment. He also said threats had been made against him at Goshen jail and by state troopers.

'Cyclist Thrown On Top of Auto

Leo Shapiro, 22, of 606 West 137th street, New York city, a motorcyclist, participated in the weirdest accident of some time when he was tossed from his machine near Poughquag Monday afternoon, landing on top of an automobile at Brill's Corner on Route 216.

Trooper Degenhardt of the Fishkill outpost reported Shapiro was rounding a sharp curve going west on the highway when his motorcycle crashed with an eastbound machine driven by Harry F. Pierce, 47, of 701 Broadway, Kingston. Tossed into the air, Shapiro landed atop the Pierce sedan, suffering an abrasion of the left leg and a contusion of the forehead. Mrs. Esther Pierce, 68, Kingston, passenger in the sedan, suffered contusions about the forehead.

The World Of Stamps

By James B. Hatcher

Ever since 968, Monaco has belonged to the House of Grimaldi. The present prince Louis II, is pictured in bemedalled, epauletted uniform on the two high values of a new charity set from this Riviera principality.

Louis is primarily a soldier, for he served 30 years in the French army before succeeding his father, Prince Albert the oceanographer, on the Monacan throne. His parents separated and Lady Mary Douglas Hamilton, his mother, carried him off to Scotland where Louis grew up.

At 23 he entered the French army. While serving as a young officer with the Foreign Legion in Algeria, he had a romantic affair with Juliette Louvet, an obscure French girl. Their daughter, Charlotte, was adopted as hereditary princess, but has since renounced the right of succession in favor of her 14-year-old son, Prince Rainier.

Louis served as a cavalry commander in the World War with title of brigadier-general. Today he usually lives in his Paris residence or his chateau at Marchais, France.

The new set includes five stamps. Three show verdant scenes of Monaco — 50-centimes plus 50-c bright green, 90-c plus 90-c vermilion and 1.50-francs plus 1.50 fultramarine. Louis' portrait appears on the 2-f plus 2-f violet and 5-f plus 5-f brown red.

Kwank Chau Wan Overprints

Out on the southern coast of China's Kwangtung province lies a small territory called Kwang Chau Wan which belongs to France and is administered by Indo-China. This 200-square-mile territory uses Indo-Chinese stamps overprinted "KOUANG-TCHEOU," the French official spelling of Kwang Chau Wan (or Kwangchowan).

The latest set for Kwang Chau Wan consists of the usual overprint on the 1931-32 set of Indo-China (21 stamps). The overprint is in black capitals on all but the 10- and 15-cent stamps. On them it's red.

Railroad Congress

France is celebrating the 13th international railroad congress, held in Paris, with two appropriate commemoratives. They are said to mark the centenary of the first French railroad. The 30-centime green shows the first car and a half of an electric train, while the 1.50-franc ultramarine pictures a streamlined steam locomotive. They are plate engraved and the same size as France's other recent commemoratives.

Postmasters' Provisionals

"Postmasters' Provisional Stamps," the first section of John N. Luff's famous study of 19th century U. S. stamps, has been revised by Hugh M. Clark and reissued by the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. This well illustrated survey of the earliest American classics does justice to the historical background wherever possible. Luff lists 23 towns and cities whose postmasters issued provisionals.

Tells About Fight At Ford Factory

Detroit, July 7 (AP) — Walter Reuther testified today he was "slugged on the back of the head" and "pushed and kicked" down a concrete stairway when United Automobile Workers organizers went to the Ford Motor Company's Dearborn plant May 26 to distribute union literature.

Reuther, president of the U. A. W. A. West Side Local, was the first union member to tell his story of the riot before a National Labor Relations Board hearing on a complaint charging the Ford Company with unfair labor practices.

He took the stand after the union abandoned plans for a second visit this morning to Ford's big River Rouge factory.
